REMAINS CRITICAL.

The Political Situation in the East.

A Crisis May be Expected Within Twenty-four Hours—Warlike Demonstrations at Constantinople.

CONSTANTINOPLE, via SOFIA, Bulgaria, Nov. 29.—The political situation remains critical, and the crisis may be expected within the ensuing twenty-four hours.

The sultan, who is more thoroughly under the influence of the palace party, led by Izzel Bey, still declines to grant the firmans applied for by the representatives of Great Britian, Russia, Italy and Austria, for the passage of the extra guard ships through the straits of Dardanelles. This is the more extraordinary as on Tuesday last Twefik Pasha, the Turkish minister for foreign affairs, personally assured Sir Philip Currie that the porte had determined to grant immediately the permission required. It would thus seem that while the Turkish ministers are apparently in favor of granting the firmans, the "palace party," valets, priests, chamberlains and others, who are the real advisors of Abdul Hamid, are opposed to it as calculated to lower the dignity of the sultan.

Meantime the Musculmans are growing uneasy, looking upon the threatened advent of the extra guardships as nothing less than a warlike demonstration before Constantinople. This is a dangerous feature of the affair and is adding to the anxiety felt on all sides.

In spite of the threatened aspect, however, the sultan persists in his refusal to issue the firmans and has again made an evasive reply to the British ambassadors' representations on the subject. But Sir Philip Currie, when assured by Twefik Pasaha that the firmans would be forthcoming, promptly telegrapned to the admiral in command of the British Mediterranean squadron, instructing him to dispatch a gun boat to the Dardenelles, to be used in the Bospohrus as an extra guardship at the disposal of the British embassy. As a result, the twin-screw torpedo gun boat Dryad, 1,070 tons, carrying four seven inch and four six pounder quick firing guns, was despatched to the Dardanelles, and is expected to arrive at Chanakala today and pass right on to the Bospohorus.

The failure of the porte to grant permission for the passage of the Straits of the Dardanelles thus puts Sir Philip Currie in a somewhat embarrassing position, the only escape from which is to order away the Dryad or to insist that she be allowed to pass in, backing up the order by force, if that should be necessary.

The sultan is known to be in a state of the greatest agitation at the news that the extra British gunboat is heading for the Dardanelles, on the strength of the assurances given the British ambassador by the minister of foreign affairs, and, consequently, the position of Twefik Pasha is not a pleasant one. The latter was sent for at midnight and an exciting interview took place between him and the sultan, during which the latter bitterly and tearfully reproached Twefik Pasha for his action in the matter. The pasha tried to justify himself by recalling that the granting of this firmans had been agreed to in substance by the sultan, and that he, as in duty bound, so informed Sir Philip Currie, when the latter sent an urgent message asking for a prompt reply to several communications on the subject. The sultan insisted that it was impossible to issue the firmans, as it would cause rioting in Constantinople, and that the powers should be content with the measures taken by the government to maintain order and not hamper the authorities by making a demonstration likely to undo all the good he was endeavoring to do. The sultan then instructed Twefik Pasha to do everything possible to induce the British ambassador to countermand his order for the gunboat. Sir Philip, however, refused to do so, saying that he was tired of being trifled with, and reminding his visitor that Great Britain was acting entirely within her treaty rights, and upon assurance of a responsible member of the Turkish government that the porte had decided to grant permissions for the extra guard boats to pass the Dardanelles. Twefik Pasha returned to the palace in a very unenviable frame of mind and announced the failure of his mission to the sultan. The latter is said to have been frantic with rage and drove Twefik from his presence with fierce revilings. The president of the state council said Pasha, who is supposed to have some influence with Sir Philip Currie, was then upon hurriedly sent for, and reaching the apartments of the sultan after 1:30 a. m. Abdul Hamid eagerly besought him to go immediately to the British ambassador and spare no effort to induce him to order the recall of the Dryad. The entreaties of said Pasha seem to have had weight with the ambassador, for Sir Philip finally consented to place the whole matter at that late hour once more before his government and to await further instructions, although he is understood to have carte blanche as to what steps he thinks it necessary to take in treating with the sultan. This morning the British ambassador is awaiting a reply from London. The Turkish officials believe the marquis of Salusbury, acting upon the understanding that nothing is to be done to hinder the efforts of the sultan in the work of maintaining order, may instruct Sir Philip to direct the commander of the Dryad not to enter the Dardanelles at present.

Abdul Hamid appears to have completely lost his head, the public service is entirely disorganized, the cabinet ministers are being sent for from the palace at all hours of the day and night and may be said to be in almost constant attendance at the Yildiz Kiosk. Everybody is anxious and worried, the ambassadors being as tired as everybody else here at the long months of almost fruitless efforts to induce the sultan to really govern his empire with some degree of common sense.

The little news received here from Asiatic Turkey only tends to make the situation look blacker. The hurrying of troops to Syria and Palestine continues and there is no doubt that the rebelious Druzes will have to submit to a heavy reckoning with the Turks for their uprising.

The flames of a holy war, always smouldering among the Musulmans, are being dangerously fanned and may at any time burst forth into a conflagration which will compel all Europe to take a hand in saving the lives and property of many thousands of almost helpless Christians. A stray shot, a sharp blow may explode the powder magazine with which the weak-minded Abdul Hamid has been toying so long.

Every report which reaches Constantinople not only confirms the stories of reported outrages but adds to the list of horrors recorded and swells the death roll by hundreds daily.

Blood, fire and famine have been stalking unchecked if not encouraged throughout the Asiatic dominions of the Turk and the hour, it is again said, cannot long be delayed when Europe must cry "halt" to the blood thirsty infidel and the cross be raised against the green banner of Mahomet.

From Erzeroum some additional news was forthcoming today, but it only served to paint the picture blacker and redder. More attempts to exterminate the Christian population of that city and vicinity have been made and the Armenians who survive are actually being induced by their priests to embrace Islamism to save their lives.

The last outbreak at Erzeroum, according to the official account of the affair, was of a trifling nature, only eight persons were killed and is attributed by the governor of Erzeroum to an encounter between agents of the tobacco internal revenue department and some smugglers. The Armenian versions of the affair put an entirely different complexion upon the disturbance, saying the number of killed was much greater and that the rioting was occasioned by the Turks.

SENATOR PALMER

Expresses Himself Forcibly on Presidential Candidates.

Not in Favor of Cleveland for a Third Term—Wants a Western Man.

CHICAGO, Nov. 29.—A Washington special to the Journal-Press says: 'The democratic party has done many foolish things but in Heaven's name let us not violate our most sacred tradition by nominating Cleveland for a third term."

So said Senator John M. Palmer today, he added:

"I don't think he would accept, but whether he would or not, we should not think of nominating him again. I am a supporter of Cleveland, but not for a third term—either Cleveland or anybody else east. Let us have a western man next time—Morrison, if he wants it; Carlisle, if he will take it. Legislation this session wont be anything to speak of either for currency or to make up the deficiency. We will be in session about eight months president-making. I would not be surprised if the session would bring out some presidential timber on both sides thus far unknown."

Senator Palmer scoffs at the talk of war with England over Venezuela, and says that if the Cuban insurgents represent the great body of the natives and are fighting for the liberty of the whole people, he is with them. He believes that Tanner will be the next governor of Illinois and Cannon the next senator.

Refused a New Trial.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Nov. 29.—In the county courts today Judge Horton refused a motion for a new trial in the case against Andrew Wall, convicted of conspiracy. Ward is the vice president of the Fidelity Building and Loan association, of Pittsburg. No opinion was filed. He will likely be sentenced tomorrow.

Lynched the Wrong Men.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 29.—A local paper prints a letter from Arizona signed John Doe, in which the writer says he committed the murder for which Garland Stemler and Louis Mureno were lynched by a mob at Yreka, Cal., last August. Two other men were lynched at the same time.

Asphyxiated by Gas.

CHICAGO, Nov. 29.—Two sailors, S. H. Rickards and Benjamin Nugent, were asphyxiated by gas in their room in a boarding house, 80 Wells street, early this morning. From letters found it is believed they belonged to the steamer Egyptian. It is not known whether they committed suicide or not.

Missionaries Safe.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—The state department has advices from Minister Terrell stating that the missionary school of France at Marasch was burned on the 19th, but that the missionaries are safe. He also telegraphs that the Aintab college is protected.

SETTLED THE FIGHT.

Ohio and Indiana Declare for McDowell and Glenn

As Clerk and Doorkeeper of the National House—The Slate as it Reads Now.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—Indiana played an important part in settling the house organization fight. When twelve of the Indiana delegation, all except Mr. Johnson, decided to support McDowell, of Pennsylvania, for clerk; Ohio quickly followed suit, and the alleged "combination," with McDowell at its head, on the strength of these new recruits, ran up the emblem of victory. Mr. Johnson, who arrived last night with Mr. Tracewell, took a decided stand for his old colleague on the committee of banking and currency, General Henderson, of Illinois, and he will vote for the latter, if Henderson stays in the race.

On every hand it is conceded that Indiana settled the clerkship fight. Henderson is still making a show of fight, but his friends were making overtures to the McDowell "combination" for the office of sergeant-at-arms, which looks significant. Being refused, Henderson renewed his fight for the clerkship, although he has no show of winning.

All the Indiana congressmen are here. By the terms of the "deal" with the McDowell "combine" Indiana will get a good share of house patronage. The most important, perhaps, is the office of journal clerk, which goes to Thomas H. McKee, of Logansport, the unsuccessful candidate for sergeant at arms. Steele, of Marion, made a play for this recognition of McKee. He will succeed N. T. Critchfield, of Kentucky, and will defeat Harry Smith, of Michigan, who held the office for many years. Captain McKee is very much perturbed over a private circular sent out from Logansport to members of the Indiana delegation abusing him. He is threatening several kinds of vengeance.

Ohio and Indiana have declared for McDowell and Glenn for clerk and doorkeeper, respectively, of the house, and there is now practically no doubt of the election of ex-Representative McDowell as clerk, although General Henderson, of Illinois, says he is still in the race. Mr. McDowell's friends are claiming today that he has 180 votes, and while General Henderson's supporters do not concede so many, the majority of them admit the strong probability of the election of the Pennsylvania man by a considerable large majority.

General Henderson, when asked today if he intended to continue in the race for clerk, replied that such was his intention. "My banner," he said, 'is still on the outer walls. I will not continue the quotation to the extent of saying, 'the cry is, still they come,' for I have never made any claims. I do not, however, consider the contest settled until the house caucus shall pass upon it, and I shall hold out until that time." He added that he had considered some of the Ohio delegates pledged to him, and said that even with half of Ohio or the Indiana delegation he could be nominated. There is an effort in certain quarters to obtain General Henderson's consent to transfer his candidacy to the contest for sergeant at-arms, but he has not yet consented to this arrangement, and it is being bitterly opposed by the friends of Mr. Russell, who is the candidate of the McDowell-Glenn coalition for this place.

Ohio probably secures the postmastership by endorsing McDowell, and it is understood that Captain McKee, of Indiana, who has been Mr. Russell's chief avowed opponent for sergeant at arms, is to be made journal clerk, Mr. McKee abandoning his contest for the elective office.

The present slate for the elective offices of the house reads:

Clerk—Alexander McDowell, of Pennsylvania.

Sergeant at Arms—Benj. F. Russell, of Missouri.

Doorkeeper—W. J. Glenn, of New York.

Postmaster—J. C. McElroy, of Ohio.

Chaplain—The Rev. Mr. Fisher, of Kansas.

The house caucus will be held Saturday night.

The president came into town today and the cabinet gathered for the last meeting before the assembling of congress. Naturally, the annual message of the president was the leading topic for discussion, the reports of the cabinet having all been prepared with the exception of those of the secretary of the treasury and the attorney general. The message itself is nearing completion rapidly and probably will go to the printer tomorrow or Sunday next. At the printing office all preparations have been made for its handling and a force of carefully selected men will soon turn the typewritten copy into print.

Ex-Speaker Crisp arrived here this morning from his Georgia home and after consultation with some of the democratic leaders, it was decided to hold the house democratic caucus tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock. The caucus will probably be very brief, as no attempt will be made to outline a policy at the coming session. The line of action to be pursued by the democrats will depend upon the developments of the majority. The caucus will select minority candidates for the house offices, undoubtedly renominating the officers of the fifty-third house of representatives, a caucus chairman and an officer to represent the minority as a 'whip" on the floor will be chosen also. Judge Holman, of Indiana, who has been chairman of the democratic caucus for several congresses, is not in the present house, and it is generally believed that the caucus will select Amos J. Cummings, of New York, for this honor.

Hon Walter Evans, republican representative-elect from the Louisville, Ky., district, when asked today concerning published reports quoting him as saying that he was not a candidate for United States senator to succeed Blackburn, said that he never had made any such statement and that it was incorrect. Mr. Evans is in the senatorial race.

GOV. MATTHEWS' RECORD

On the Money Question Being Inquired Into

By Eastern Democrats—Want a Hard Money Man—To Get Senator Hill's Support.

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 29.—Some concern has been expressed by the friends of Governor Matthews lest his utterances on the money question militate against his prospects of becoming the democratic national standard bearer in 1896. Thursday night a New York man sent out here by a number of eastern democrats who are stanch supporters of the hard-money idea returned east with a bundle of papers containing speeches by the governor on the money and other public questions. The man came very quietly, and approaching a well-known political friend of the governor's, stated his object in coming west. He wanted to obtain from the governor some tangible statement as to his position on the silver question, hoping that Mr. Matthew's stand would be one that the eastern hard-money democrats could indorse. While the governor's friends realized that the visit meant a recognition in the east of the formidable candidacy of the Indiana man, yet he feared that an expression by the Governor would only warrant the opposition of these hard money men.

The governor's friends believe that there will be a strong anti-convention fight made on him on the ground of his silver utterances, but they expect to overcome eastern opposition by a solid western support.

The same men who are working so assiduously to properly lay the plans for Mr. Matthews in 1896, are looking forward to the visit of Senator Hill to this city on December 11, when he delivers his lecture. They know the antagonism of Hill to Cleveland would probably array the senator against any effort Cleveland might make to name the next democratic nominee, and they are hopeful that Senator Hill's support may be secured for Mr. Matthews. Despite Hill's unpopularity outside New York, he still has a very strong hold on the machine of that state.

A DEMENTED WOMAN

Leaps From a Northwestern Railway Train,

And is Instantly Killed—Accompanied by a Crazy Son—Were Morphine Fiends.

MADISON, Wis., Nov. 29.—As the northbound train on the Northwestern road reached Shopiere, Wisconsin, last night, an elderly woman traveling with her ten-year-old grandson, became violently insane and caused a panic among the passengers. The conductor ordered all others from the car and locked the woman and boy inside. When the train arrived at Evansville, it was discovered that the woman was missing. Investigation showed that she had leaped through the window from the train. The boy remained in the car. It was found he too was demented and could give no account of what transpired.

Word was telegraphed back to Janesville and a searching party organized this morning found the woman's body beside the track, seven miles south of Janesville, evidently instantly killed. The body was brought to this city. In the woman's satchel was found a way bill of goods which showed the woman's name was Mrs. Vodré, traveling from Champlain, N. Y., to Springfield, Minn. The bill was signed B. W. Brown, Champlain. In the satchel were also found seven bottles of morphine and a box of morphine powders. The body will be sent to Champlain.

AN OLD GRUDGE

Causes Kirk Eller to Shoot James Martin.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 29.—At a Thanksgiving celebration in Johnson county, yesterday, James Martin and Kirk Eller, who had long held a grudge against each other, got into a fight. Martin drew his rifle on Eller and the latter shot him with a pistol. Martin lived a few hours. A mob gathered to lynch Eller, but he was landed safely in the Mountain City jail.

ETERNAL LIFE GAINED.

The Four Steps the Sinner Must Take To be Saved.

Conviction of Sin, Contrition, or Sorrow for Sin, Conversion and Confession—Dr. Chapman's Sermon.

Dr. Chapman preached last night at the Princess rink to an audience of nearly four thousand people, every seat in the immense building being occupied, and many more sought but were refused admission at the doors because of the crowded condition of the rink.

The meeting was begun with the usual song service. These are always interesting, but last night they were especially so. The opening hymn was by the big chorus choir and then the Haydn and Linden quartets, the two finest men church choirs in the city, sang a piece together, after which each one of the quartets rendered a selection alone, and then Professor and Mrs. Lowe sang.

The prayer was offered by Rev. A. A Hundley, the pastor of the Christ's Lutheran church, the church chorus choir sang a hymn and then Dr. Chapman arose and began his sermon, his theme being, "What Must I Do to be Saved?" His text was taken from the sixteenth chapter of Acts, using a portion of the thirtieth and thirty-first verses reading as follows:

"Sirs, what must I do to be saved?" and "Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ and thou shalt be saved."

The question was the one asked by the jailor at the time Paul and Silas were liberated from prison by an earthquake, and the answer was that given to him by the apostles

Taking this question and answer as the foundation for his discourse, the evangelist made clear the plan of salvation and delivered a sermon that was convincing and convicting. In brief his sermon outlined four steps that the sinner must take in order to be saved from his sins and inherit eternal life.

1st Conviction. He must believe that he is a sinner and unworthy, in his sinful condition, of God's love and mercy.

2nd. Contrition. There must be sorrow for the sins committed, a grief of heart for having done wrong towards God, and a determination to live in obedience to the divine law.

3rd. Conversion. There must be a change of heart, in which the enmity to God and His law are displaced by love for Him and an acceptance of the conditions in His plan of salvation, belief and faith in Jesus Christ as a savour.

4th. Confession. There must be an acknowledgment, a confession on the lips of the change felt in the heart, and a profession of the faith which has been accepted.

In treating of his text the speaker mentioned each of these four steps in detail. If I had a blackboard, he said, I would write a great big capital C, and after it four words of which it should be the initial letter.

The first word I would write would be 'Conviction." That is the first thing—a man must be convinced that he is a sinner before he can accept Christ. Nicodemus was no common sinner. He was a member of the Sanhedrim, a man of blameless life, but Jesus said to him, "Ye must be born again." Conviction must come first, but conviction may assume different forms with different people. Stanley tells us of a race of men he found in Africa who did not know they were black until they saw a white man. So we may not know ourselves sinners until we come to compare ourselves with the standard God has set up.

The next word I would write is contrition. A man must be sorry for his sin. It is the broken and contrite heart that God will not despise and when the sinner comes to Him in humiliation and penitence and faith Christ will forgive him. He paid the debt of the sinner's sins on the cross and although they be as the sands of the sea, although they be red like scarlet. He will take them all upon Himself.

The next word I would write would be "conversion." The jailor was converted. When he thrust Paul and Silas into prison he did it roughly, but now he brought them out and washed their stripes. He turned square about in his conduct toward them. That's what conversion is. It means turning about from going in one direction to going in another. They tell us that 3 000 young people in Cleveland are praying God today to convert Ingersoll. I don't believe that will amount to a snap of your finger. God will never save Ingersoll or anybody else till they are willing to be saved.

The last word I would write would be confession. If you believe in your heart and confess Jesus Christ, you shall be saved. The apostle's answer to the jailor who came to him with the question, "What must I do to be saved?" was, "Believe in the Lord Jesus Christ." This was no chance stringing together of names—each word has its significance. "Lord," denotes His kingship, you believe in Him as your God, your King You believe in Him as "Jesus," your Savior. You believe in Him as 'Christ," the Annointed of the Father, the one appointed for this purpose in the counsels of infinite love

In Mark xvi, 26, we read: "He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved." I say nothing about the form of baptism, each of you have a right to his own opinion about that, but baptism is the appointed method of confessing Christ as the Savior. I will not say that there might not be circumstances under which a man might be saved without baptism; but I do say that the man who goes up to the bar of God unbaptized can not claim that he has fully obeyed the command that has been laid upon him.

The speaker closed with an earnest plea to the sinner to come to Christ and accept Him as his Savior. Many in the great congregation raised their hands or stood upon their feet as an indication of their desire to lead a better life and an acceptance of Christ.

Mr. Chapman will preach tonight at the Princess rink, the services beginning at 7:30 o'clock.

The services tomorrow evening will be similar to those of last Saturday evening. Professor and Mrs. Lowe will give a stereoptican representation of the different hymns, combined with an interesting song service.

The hour for the Sunday afternoon meeting for women and girls will be 3:30 p m. Meeting for men at 7.30 p. m.

POPE LEO

Presided at the Secret Consistory at Rome,

And Created Nine Cardinals and Twenty-four Bishops—Mgr. Satolli Now a Cardinal.

ROME, Nov 29.—The pope today presided at the secret consistory and created nine cardinals, namely: The archbishops of Lemberg, Salzbourg, Valladolid and Bourges; Mgr. Satolli, the papal delegate to the Roman Catholic church in the United States; Mgr Goth, the inter nuncio to Brazil, and the bishops of Autun, Urgel and Ancona. His holiness then preconcised twenty-four Italian bishops.

A NOVEL PLAN

To Abolish the Election of Certain State and County Officers.

BRISTOL, Ind., Nov. 29.—Judge Van Fleet, of this county, one of Indiana's best known jurists, has promulgated a novel plan for taking the election of important state and county officials in Indiana out of the hands of the people The jurist, who promises to outline the proposed measures by the draft of a new law for the consideration of the legislature, would place all the county offices under the control of the county commissioners. The duty of the county board would be to advertise for bids for the work, and the duties of the auditor, clerk, treasurer, sheriff, recorder and surveyor should be sold to the lowest responsible bidder every four years A good and sufficient bond would be required for the faithful performance of the duties and the officers made liable for any and all mistakes for irregularities occurring.

This, Judge Van Fleet believes, would open public work to all competent persons and put it in competition the same as bridge letting or other public service. This plan would take the county offices out of politics and stop all wrangling over the question of salary.

Judge Van Fleet would dispose of the state offices also and place the responsibility for the work in the hands of a commission composed of the governor, auditor, secretary and treasurer of state. This service he would award a person or persons on competitive bids.

This plan, Judge Van Fleet thinks, might not please politicians and office holders and seekers, but would be eminently satisfactory to the people who pay the taxes. It would also give those persons without a political pull an equal show for employment. The office of township trustees, justices of the peace, judge and members of the legislature, as well as congressmen, he would make elective.

Decrees of Foreclosure.

PORTLAND, Ore, Nov. 29.—A decree of foreclosure has been taken in the United States circuit court in the suit of the Mercantile Trust company of New York against the Portland Consolidated Street Railway company. The road has been operated by a receiver for the last year. The amount of the decree is $452,775, which comprises the consolidated bonds of the company with interest. The railway system comprises thirty one miles of electric road.

Freight Wreck.

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Nov. 29.—At Canterberg Hill on the Norfolk and Western railroad, a bad freight wreck occurred late last evening Engineer Walter and Brakeman Hardin are fatally, and several others seriously injured. The loss to the company will run far into the thousands. Further particulars can not now be ascertained.

Work of Locusts.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—Owing to locusts, the sugar crop in Zambesia will be almost a total failure this year, according to the report of United States Consul Hollis, at Mozambique. The peanut crop is very short from the same cause and great distress exists among the natives, who are emigrating to other sections.

Terrible Battle.

MOUNT STERLING, Ky., Nov. 29.—A terrible battle took place at Hazel Green, Wolfe county, yesterday, between John Williams and David Rose, two prominent and wealthy stock traders. Williams was killed and Rose is in a dying condition. They fell out during a settlement.

Yellow Fever.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 29.—The whaleback steamer, City of Everett, from Panama, reports that yellow fever is prevalent in Guatemala, but that Panama is practically free from disease.

WITH DYNAMITE

Cuban Insurgents Blow up Railway Trains,

Injuring Passengers—Killing Cattle and Doing a Great Amount of Damage.

HAVANA, Nov. 29.—A dispatch received here from Puerto Principe announces that the insurgents have blown up with dynamite the engine of a train in the vicinity of Nuevitas, that province. The engine was demolished, the engineer and two firemen were terribly mutilated, and seven passengers were injured, among them being the widow of ex General Ygenico Agramente.

The insurgents have also blown up a culvert on the railroad between Caibarien and Remedios, province of Santa Clara, destroying ten cars loaded with cattle, and killing seventy head of cattle. The engineer of the train was seriously wounded and railroad communication between the interior and Redmedios is temporarily interrupted.

THE FAIR CLOSED.

The Festival at St. Peter's Church Was Very Successful.

The fair and festival at St. Peter's Catholic church closed last night. It was very successful in every particular. Large crowds attended. In fact, last night the hall was so densely packed that it was difficult for people to move about. The festure last night was the voting contest for a flag, between Father Anthony Council No. 500, C. B. L., and Branch No. 737, C. K. of A. It was a spirited contest and it resulted in a victory for the Knights who had 1 998 votes while the Legion received 969 votes. Wednesday night a bed room set, that was contested for by a number of married ladies, was won by Mrs. John Klinkenberg.

Altogether the fair was a success and everybody who attended enjoyed it very much.

BEAUTIFUL SERVICE.

Prof. and Mrs. Lowe in Service of Song Illustrated.

Tomorrow night at the Princess rink Prof. and Mrs. Lowe, the sweet singers at the Chapman evangelistic meetings, will give an entertainment at the rink consisting of a service of song illustrated, which will be stereopticon views of the most popular hymns. The service is a most beautiful one and similar to that given by Professor and Mrs. Lowe at the rink last Saturday evening By request they will repeat part of the views in the life of Christ as given last Saturday evening, when the rink was crowded and everybody spoke in praise of the entertainment.

ASPHYXIATED.

Rev. A. Henrich and Wife Dead at Platte Centre, Neb.

PLATTE CENTRE, Neb., Nov. 29.—This morning Rev. A. Henrich and his wife were asphyxiated by gas from their hard coal stove. Mr. Henrich was found dead and his wife was dying when neighbors forced the door. They came from Louisville, Ky., several years ago, and are well known in many states Several children reside in Denver and have been notified.

THE SCHELL CASE.

The Evidence in the Case at Peru is Closed.

A telegram was received in this city at 2 o'clock this afternoon stating that the evidence in the Schell case, at Peru, had been closed and the witnesses from here were not wanted. Hence, the several Fort Wayne witnesses did not go.

KILLED WHILE HUNTING.

Frank Fosler Receives a Fatal Gun Shot Wound.

A Child Scalded—A Lady Breaks a Wrist—A Lakeside Car Jumps the Track.

Christian Fosler, Wabash section foreman at this point, received a telegram from White House, Ohio, last evening, informing him of a fatal accident which befell his son, Frank M. Fosler. The telegram was signed by E. E. Muney, was received at 3:40 o'clock and briefly read: "Frank was accidentally shot today." The particulars of the accident could not be learned. Mr. Fosler left on the early Wabash train this morning for White House, intending to bring the remains of his son here for interment, but the fact that he telegraphed for his wife and daughter to go to White House leads to the belief that the remains will be buried there. Mrs. Fosler and the young lady left on train 46 this afternoon. Frank Fosler was twenty-two years old and since July last has resided with his grandmother at White House, where he was employed in a quarry. Previous to July he was employed as a fireman on the Wabash road some years. During the centennial he visited his parents, but has not been here since.

LATER.

At 3 o'clock this afternoon a message from White House stated that Frank Fosler's remains would be buried in the cemetery at that place tomorrow. The hour of the funeral was not stated

CHILD SCALDED.

The one-year-old child of Dr. and Mrs. Carl Schilling received severe scalds yesterday at the dinner table. It put its hand into a cup of hot coffee. The hand was badly blistered and burned and the little one suffers much pain in consequence.

OFF THE TRACK.

A Lakeside street car ran off the track yesterday, but no damage was done. Several foot ball players were on the car and the accident delayed the opening of the game.

WRIST BROKEN.

Mrs. John W. McWhorter, of No. 57 West Third street, slipped upon an icy sidewalk and fell, breaking one of the bones in her wrist.

MIRACULOUS ESCAPE.

A little boy whose name was not learned, was run over by a heavy truck at the corner of Berry and Calhoun streets, this afternoon. Miraculously he escaped injury.

SALVATION BAND.

May Arrive in the City the Last of Next Week.

A Salvation Army Brass and String Band—Meetings To be Held in the Rink.

Capt. Bullock was in the city today to make arrangements to bring his Salvation Army band to this city the latter part of next week. The band consists of eighteen members who play brass and string instruments. It is at Hartford City and will stop at Bluffton a few days before arriving here. Captain Bullock wants to hold meetings in the rink after the Chapman meetings close. With the band are two Indian girls whose singing has been a great attraction all over the country. Captain Kemp is the preacher and conducts regular religious services, the band furnishing the music.

It will be a great attraction and no doubt the meetings would result in much good being done.

STOLE DRESS GOODS.

Della Whitney, Aged Seventeen, in Jail.

She Nipped the Goods in a Nebraska Store—Vows She Will Kill Herself if Released.

The police this afternoon arrested Della Whitney, a seventeen-year-old girl, for stealing thirteen yards of dress goods from the store of F. M. Schmaltz, in Nebraska. She took the goods a week ago and Mr. Schmaltz found it at a dressmaker's where the girl was having a dress made. The skirt was already finished.

The girl is rather pretty. She told a SENTINEL reporter her story as she sat in a cell at the police station this afternoon. She said: "My father is dead. My mother is now Mrs. Fremont Springer, and she lives at Churubusco. I could not stay at home with my stepfather so I have been working out since I was thirteen years old. I have been in Fort Wayne about three months. About four weeks ago I lost my place, and since then I have roomed with another girl on West Main street. The charge against me is true. I never was in trouble before and when I get out of this place I will not live twenty-four hours. I will give somebody a chance to go fishing. I will kill myself, sure."

The stolen goods were recovered and are at the police station

EMINENT TESTIMONY

Regarding the New Discovery for Curing Dyspepsia and Indigestion.

Dr. Hartzman, who has made many cures of the new dyspepsia cure, is very enthusiastic in his praise of this excellent preparation. It is not a secret patent medicine, but is composed of pure pepsin, bismuth, fruit salts and vegetable essences, made into pleasant tasting tablets or lozenges and sold by druggists at 50 Cents per package, under the name of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

Dr Hartzman states that Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets cure dyspepsia and weak stomachs, because they possess the peculiar power of digesting whatever wholesome food is taken into the stomach. They do not act on the bowels like cathartics, but digest rely on the food, digesting it thoroughly and quickly, giving the stomach a chance to rest and recover its natural strength, which it invariably will do after a course of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets If your druggist hasn't them in stock ask him to order a small quantity from his wholesaler

THE turkey can now roost in peace until Christmas time

NATURE could not have given us a grander Thanksgiving day than we had yesterday.

"BELIEVE in the Lord, Jesus Christ, and thou shalt be saved." That is the essence of Christianity.

THE eastern question, as will be seen by our telegrams today, is growing critical and interesting.

AN Indianian, Captain McKee, of Logansport, will probably be made journal clerk of the house, as will be seen by THE SENTINEL'S Washington telegrams today.

MANY homes were made happy yesterday as the result of the contributions left by the charitable people of Fort Wayne at the Princess rink. Such religion is of the practical kind.

THE sermon of Dr. Chapman at the Princess rink last night was a plain and able presentation of the gospel plan of salvation. The four steps necessary are: conviction, contrition, conversion and confession.

AN ordinance has been passed by the Chicago city council requiring all street cars to stop at the nearer crossings in the direction in which they are going A fine of not less than $10 nor more than $25 is provided for each failure to comply with its terms. The object of the ordinance set forth by its advocates is to make less frequent accidents and collisions between vehicles and street cars at the crossings. Our street car company adheres to the practice of stopping at the further crossings.

AND now it is the potato that scientists are discrediting. Dr. Cyrus Edson, a noted Philadelphia physician, says that the practice of feeding potatoes to infants and young children can not be too severely condemned. John Gilmer Speed asserts that the potato is responsible for the prevalence of dyspepsia among Americans. We wonder if he ever heard of an Irishman raised on potatoes and milk ever having dyspepsia. Or does either of these gentlemen know of a nation whose bone and muscle are better than those possessed by the Irish, and nurtured chiefly on a potato diet? Let them make an examination of Peter Maher, the Irish pugilist, and see if the potato is causing physical degeneracy.

THE Missouri democrats have settled the differences that divided them on the finance question and both the free silver and sound money state committees will hold a joint meeting at St. Louis on the 3d of December to organize for the campaign of 1896. Noting this fact the New Albany Ledger adds: "This means democratic victory in Missouri next year. Similar action by the democrats in all the other states in which they are divided on the silver question would put the party on the line to victory all over the country."

IT is possible that there may be some sort of brutal pleasure in rolling around in the mud as twenty-two young men did at the Lakeside ball grounds yesterday afternoon while playing a game of foot ball, but we cannot see wherein that pleasure consists. It is possible also that there may be pleasure in witnessing that sort of sport, but we cannot understand where the pleasure comes in. Foot ball, the way they play it in these modern days, is about as senseless and uninteresting and brutal a game, according to our way of thinking, as could be got up.

THERE is considerable talk of changing the rule by which a two-thirds vote is required in democratic national conventions to nominate candidates for the presidency and vice presidency. It is now proposed to make a majority vote sufficient to nominate, as the practice is in republican national conventions. The two-thirds rule was adopted some forty years ago in order to defeat an undesirable aspirant. It has the advantage of ruling out men of doubtful popularity, but the disadvantage of prolonging nominations and bringing mediocre men to the front. The republican majority practice has the advantage of giving every aspirant a fair show, with no favors to anybody.

PERSONS just arrived from Alaska tell conflicting stories about British designs and demonstrations in that quarter. Some declare that there is no doubt but the British meditate a grab at the trade and even the territory belonging to the United States, and even that posts are being established and armed forces moved about with that end in view. Other messengers from the far country assert that no hostile or aggressive move of any sort is being made, and that the only armed force about is a small body of Canadian police who look after robbers on the road into and out of the gold region. The latter story is the most probable. If there is any serious differences of opinion between the United States and Great Britain about the Alaska boundary it is not to be settled by armed intervention or occupation by either party, but according to the modern custom of civilized nations in dealing with each other—by reference and arbitration.

THE Knights of Labor, in their convention last week, adopted resolutions unqualifiedly condemning the use of militia for the suppression of labor troubles. In this the Knights were certainly wrong. The militia has never been called out to suppress labor troubles. They have been called out in every case, to suppress lawlessness and the destruction of property. If labor organizations were wise, they would suppress lawlessness among their members, prevent the destruction of property by them, and the militia would never be called out But so long as laboring men insist upon the right to destroy property, to prevent other men from working, and to break any law they may deem inimical to their personal interests, just so long will law abiding citizens, who are always in the majority, demand that such acts be stopped, even if it is necessary to call out the militia for the purpose. The laws must be respected, or we would soon be in a condition of anarchy.

Gillette's Idea.

Mr. King C. Gillette has an idea. It is a tremendous one. He is going to make us all rich and happy, not to say lazy. By the improved system of finance, manufacture and commerce which he has thought out, he calculates that 10 per cent of the population, working steadily, can support all the rest in what is almost idleness. But he would not condemn 10 per cent of us to work all the time while the rest enjoyed themselves. No! We must all take our turns at labor. From 20 years old to 25 each individual must work, not so hard, however, as nearly all the rest of us work all the time now. When one detail of the population has served its time of five years, it passes off the scene to rest the remainder of its life, and the next installment comes on.

The houses of Mr. Gillette's creation will be 25 stories high. They will be built around an enormous central dome. Mr. Gillette's plans calculate for the housing of 60,000,000 people in these huge tenements. But they will not be tenements. They will be handsomer and more sanitary than the finest apartments in city flat buildings now. They will be a dream of beauty. What is more, Mr. Gillette has fixed it so that nobody can look into his neighbor's windows, which is a remarkable achievement indeed. The central dome will be so tremendous and the shape of the towers of apartments such that there will be plenty of light and air, with no airshaft humbug. The lower apartments will be just as light as the upper ones.

This stupendous plan contemplates nothing less than the abolition of underground sewers, water mains and gas pipes. They will all be put upon the surface of the ground, and the streets will be three stories high. The first story would contain the pipes in question. Overhead, 25 feet above, would be a ceiling. It and the sides of the above ground tunnel would be of snow white tiling. The second floor of the street, so to speak, would be devoted to electrical railways and the various means of transportation. If you want to go shopping, you go down to the second floor of the street and have yourself whirled to the great distributing centers of trade There will be no houses at all in this dream city. The third floor of the street would be given over to promenaders. Perhaps bicycles might be permitted there. In tubs as large as the underground beer tanks of this degenerate day trees would grow and shade all the promenade.

Of Indians in the United States there are altogether about 240,000. One-eighth of these have taken up lands in severalty, and are endeavoring to live like white men, although it is up hill work. The main obstacles in the way are two—first, the difficulty of training the male Indian to habits of regular work; second, the knavery of the white man, who cheats him out of all the best lands. If the white man cannot get the Indian's lands any other way, he marries a squaw and spends most of his time among the tribe. Then, by hook and crook, he gets possession of the best of everything. There are still 34,000 pure blood red men in Indian Territory. They comprise what is left of the five civilized tribes, so called. But the "squaw man," as the whites married to Indian women are called, being members of the tribe by adoption, monopolize for themselves and their half breed children the fat lands and fat offices, and the red man is crowded out. The squaw men and their descendants number 20,000. While there are only 34,000 full blooded Indians among the five tribes, there are today in the territory 300,000 white people who have leased or otherwise got the lands and obtained foothold. Even the strong hand of the government cannot protect Indians' rights when they fool these away themselves.

A request that tends to foster the belief in a personal devil has been made by some floriculturists to the dealers who sell their flowers. It is that, instead of selling his surplus stock to poor peddlers, who retail it out cheaply on the streets, the florist should destroy that stock, so as to keep up the price of flowers. Rich people pay often for a single rose the price of what amounts to a whole day's work for a poor person. The rose is worth exactly as much as the seller can get for it. The surplus violets, carnations, roses and other flowers are sold to the street venders They make these up into pretty little bouquets and sell to the humble, the working people and the poor, who thus get possession of some exquisite blossoms they would otherwise never get a sight of It rejoices their hearts for hours. The poor peddler likewise makes an honest living for himself and his family. But the boyish flower grower would have all this pleasure and utility destroyed solely to gratify his greed and "keep up the price of flowers." In heaven's name, what does anybody want to keep up the price of flowers for? The more of them there are, and the cheaper they are, the more of them will be bought.

The American Express company has equipped its messengers with revolvers and winchester rifles. It requests them likewise to spend a good part of their spare time in shooting at a mark and learning how to split an apple upon a gatepost That's the right kind of talk.

Senator Sherman's idea of the duties of a president of the United States will bear quoting frequently. He thinks a president should be a man released from drudgery, "with time to study vital questions of public policy, free from worry about details."

The impression that the German emperor is approaching lunacy is strengthened by things he occasionally does. One of these was that order mentioned some time ago by a London correspondent, in which his majesty requested people not to look at him in church. He does not like to be watched while he is at divine service. But if he were rapt in his prayers, as he ought to be, his majesty would not know whether people looked at him or not. The freakish emperor, however, signifies his entire willingness to be stared at when not in church. The closing part of his order is certainly something whose like was never heard of, even in the times of the Roman emperors. "Those who desire to have a good view of me can do so every day when I take my walk in the thiergarten or drive in my carriage."

The heavy government fortifications that for some years have been in process of erection at Sandy Hook have so nearly reached completion as to entitle them to a name. In issuing the order that they should be called Fort Hancock, Secretary Lamont honors the memory of a brave and patriotic American general, who was said to be the most magnificent looking army officer of his day and generation in the world. Fort Hancock will guard lower New York bay below the Narrows so that hostile foreign cruisers cannot come up near the Battery

OUT ON THE BORDER.

JACK LITTLEFIELD DIED WITH HIS BOOTS ON.

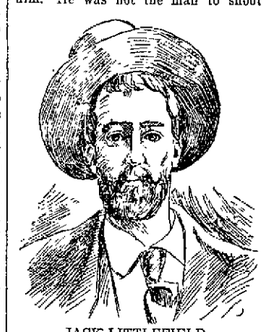

HE WAS NOT THE WORST MAN IN ROUND VALLEY.

Ran Away with His Sweetheart—Sat to the Saddle and Lighted His Pipe While Her Father Blazed Away at Him.

ROUND VALLEY is the wildest part of Mendocino county, Cal. The mountains round about it are almost inaccessible, and the ranchers and cowboys who make up its population are wild and lawless. Every man stands on his own merits, the chief merit being the quick eye and the steady hand of the dead shot. The great ranchers of this region are George White and Ves Palmer. For several years hardly a week passed without a free fight between parties of their cowboys, either in the streets of Covelo or in the mountain wilds.

The head vaquero for White was Jim Vinton; the head vaquero for Palmer was Jack Littlefield. Both were fearless men, renowned for strength, horsemanship and skill with Winchester and revolver. But Jack Littlefield was especially heroic. His friends loved him and admired him, his enemies feared him. He was not the man to shoot from ambush. Even when he was drunk he always fought fair. He would go after the wandering cattle where other men dared not go. He would attack and conquer the fiercest of steers in those wild mountain herds. One day at Covelo he was drunk, and a huge fellow, nearly twice his size, did something which Littlefield took as an insult. Despite the difference in size Jack leaped at him and struck him in the face.

"I can't take this up," said the big man, looking down at him, "I'm not armed."

"Oh, you want shooting?" said Littlefield, and he drew out two navy revolvers. "Take your choice and back down the street" The big man refused.

They all knew the story old George Gwynn told about Jack Gwynn had a pretty daughter, who loved Jack as much as Jack loved her. The old man forbade him the house, and Jack went up there one dark night to carry the girl off. "But I was on the lookout," said the old man afterward. "It was pretty dark, but I made him out, and shot at him from the window. He stopped his horse and sat still and let me pop at him. And pretty soon he lit his pipe. The wind was blowing, and it took several matches. And every every time the match flashed I shot. ——if he didn't keep on striking 'em and sitting there till I got tired of shooting. Then he rode away."

Many a fight, single-handed or at the head of a wild party of Palmer's men, did Jack have with White's vaqueros. And as he always came out ahead, a dozen of White's men hated him with a jealous, mortified fury that could only be appeased by his death Between him and his employer, "Ves" Palmer, there was a friendship like that of David and Jonathan, a friendship based upon the things they had endured together and the memory of the tight places in which each had saved the other.

The great cause of the love and devotion of Littlefield for Palmer and the chief cause of the tragedy in this story was the fight between Jack and Joe Greggory, up in the Red mountain country. Greggory is a White vaquero He and several of his friends met Palmer and Littlefield. A quarrel arose between Greggory and Littlefield, and, in a fair fist fight, Littlefield knocked Greggory out. As Jack turned to remount his horse, Greggory sprang upon him with a long knife and stabbed him again and again in the shoulders, arms and face. Palmer jumped at Greggory and, by the strength that fury gave him, wrenched his knife away, beat and kicked him into insensibility and, then pitched his body into a deep canyon. Then he took up his bleeding friend, carried him to the nearest camp, and sent swift messengers for the doctor, several days' journey away. It was "Ves" Palmer's nursing that saved Jack Littlefield's life.

Greggory recovered, and from that time it was his chief ambition to get even with Littlefield. He and his band of friends were together in this purpose The morning of Sept. 25 Littlefield went away to Windy Ridge to look after some cattle. From there he went on five miles to the northwest to lead out a wild steer from Red Mountain creek. Soon after he disappeared in that direction. Joe Vinton, White's head vaquero, came along Windy Ridge, riding to the southeast, exactly the opposite direction to that in which Littlefield had gone.

A mile and a half from Tom Hayden's house, some one in ambush shot Vinton in the breast. Vinton says it was Littlefield. But there are plenty of reliable witnesses to prove that Vinton either lied or was mistaken. At any rate, Vinton lay insensible for an hour and then, coming to his senses, crawled through the bushes to Hayden's cabin. Next day he sent a note into Covelo to John Rohrbough, White's overseer. Here is the note:

"I have been knocked over Send men to take care of cattle. Send a doctor. Tell Lady I've been shot through and through. VINTON."

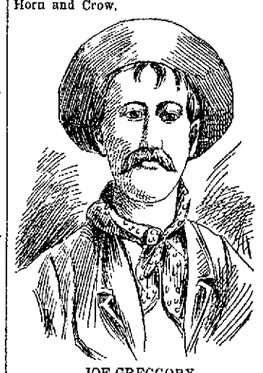

"Lady" was old man Shore's daughter, Clara, to whom Joe Vinton was engaged. With the doctor came Clara Shore, and at the last reports she was still nursing him. His wound was not fatal. The bullet went through his left breast Upon the heels of the doctor came a posse from the sheriff's office made up of enemies of Jack Littlefield. Not a man in it that had not some grudge against him. Only one was a regular constable—Bayliss Van Horn. There were Joe Greggory, who had sworn to kill Littlefield, and Jack Crow, and Buck Lacock and Fred Radcliffe, and Gord Van Horn and Jim Simmons.

The morning of the second day after Vinton was shot this party, with the exception of Jim Simmons, rode away from Hayden's to arrest Littlefield. Simmons had disappeared in the night, and Tom Hayden himself rode with the party in his stead. About noon Littlefield and two of his assistant vaqueros—Wilburn and young Wathen—were eating down on the bank of Hull's creek. Up the trail came Constable Van Horn and Jack Crow. As soon as they reached the three men sitting in the grass Van Horn said:

"Throw up your hands, Jack!"

"I won't throw up my hands for any man on the face of the earth, Bayliss Van Horn," retorted Jack. "But if you want my gun, take it."

Van Horn took Jack's gun, told him for what he was arrester and asked him to come along. Jack Littlefield laughed at the idea that he had ambushed a man, mounted his horse and was ready. Wilburn and Wathen watched him until he disappeared from sight around the turn in the trail. He was unarmed and was riding between Van Horn and Crow.

JOE GREGGORY.

About three hours after this Van Horn and Crow, riding alone, were fording Red Mountain creek. Walter Clark, a half-breed, met them. Van Horn told him how twenty men had swooped down upon them a few miles back and had shot and killed Littlefield. Next morning before the news of Littlefield's death had got into Covelo, Crow, Simmons and Greggory rode into Covelo and Crow went to Lource's saloon. The place was full of Littlefield's friends Crow ordered a drink and, as he drank, put his back to the bar. As he raised the glass he raised his revolver. "Excuse me," he said, as he put the empty glass down, "but I was afraid some of you fellows might think you wanted me."

Next day the coroner and a jury, composed of Littlefield's enemies, the very men of the constable's party, rode up to find Littlefield's body. It was hanging to a tree, boots and spurs on. The verdict was, "Jack Littlefield was shot and put to death on this date." One man suggested that they make a box for the burial Greggory said: "No funeral nonsense; —— him" Greggory pointed to several scars on the dead face and said: "Do you see those? I did that —and he buried them to his grave."

They dug a shallow hole two feet deep and tossed the body into it.

Littlefield's friends demanded an investigation. They rode up there and, instead of finding traces of twenty men, found where three men on horseback had stood their horses for quite a while in the cover of the bushes beside the trail. An investigation is in progress, and, although little has been done thus far, enough has come out to show that Van Horn and Crow did not tell the truth. Jack Littlefield's brother has taken his body down to Covelo for a decent burial and "Ves" Palmer has sworn not to rest until those who murdered him are dead.

Queer Suit for Damages.

Richard Tait, of Rochester, N. Y., has begun suit to recover $5,000 from Bernard Deutschler, a barber, who he alleges maliciously shaved off his luxuriant mustache. Tait says that he visited Deutschler's shop last Saturday and asked for a shave. Being tired he fell into a doze under the soft ministrations of the tonsorial artist. When he awoke he found to his dismay that he had been given a "clean shave" and no mistake. Until that time he had worn a fine mustache, long, yellow and silky. It had been the result of years of cultivation, and it will take years to grow another like it. In fact, a new growth will never be as soft as the one removed by the cruel razor. An angry altercation followed the discovery, but the barber, Tait claimed, only laughed at his sorrow. He then consulted with his friends and they advised him to sue. Tait says he can prove actual pecuniary damages. He was keeping company with a wealthy young lady, whom he intended to marry some day. His yellow mustache he was sure was a most potent factor in his suit, and now, having lost it, he feels that his chances have greatly diminished.

OUR WIT AND HUMOR.

TIMELY ETCHINGS FOR OUR LEAN READERS.

Satyrical Points and Pithy Sayings—End of the Romance—Serious, but Not Contagious, or, Life in Slyne's Alley—Things She Didn't Know.

THE golden-rod has ceased to blow,
The shining chestnuts fall;
And through the quiet pensive air
Now flies the big football.

He watts upon the crowded street,
In silent grief, alone;
Alas, alack, alas, alack,
The breezy summer's flown!

"No more for me the big brass wheel
Will blow across the bar
And fill my white-winged sails of joy
For fairy lands afar,

"No more the garden on the roof
Will bloom to make me gay,
No more I'll roam to Coney Isle
The swift equine to play.

"The play-house curtain's been rung down—
For me the play no more;
Nor can I for the Polo Grounds
On jocund pinions soar.

"I know the airy summer's flown,
Not by the leaflets brown,
But by my spirits faded blue—
My wife is back in town!"

Things She Didn't Know.

"I am going into a stock company, Emily," Mr. Rising announced with pardonable pride.

"Will you like that, John?" Mrs. Rising's question was given with a tone of surprise.

"Well, rather," returned Mr. Rising. "I shall be an officer."

"Oh, John, that's splendid. Will you wear a uniform?" Mrs. Rising asked with interest.

"No, Emily, the officers don't wear uniforms," replied Mr. Rising.

"How did you get to be an officer, John?" Mrs. Rising asked a moment later.

"A majority of the stock elected me," Mr. Rising answered.

"Will we have to live in the country, John?"

"What put that in your head, Emily?"

"I'd like to in the summer, and thought it would be better on account of the stock."

"That's a curious notion, Emily. The stocks are all right, A No. 1. No water in the concern. They want me here at headquarters."

"Why, John, I didn't suppose there was any stock without water."

"Precious little in these days, but this ranks first-class on the market, and they let me in on the ground floor. Hello! there's the president now. I'm off," and Mr. Rising joined his business associate on the street.

"It beats me," said Mrs. Rising, as she went about her household duties. "I don't think John's mind is affected, but if stock can vote, and the officers not wear uniforms, I'd like to know what the world is coming to. I suppose he meant city water would do as well as the country, but men are crack-brained on some things. I'm thankful I don't have to worry about business. It's all I can do to look after three meals a day."—Chicago Times-Herald.

An Old Salt—I've got a riddle to ask you chaps. If a 'erring and a half cost three farthings, how many could you buy for a sixpence?

Profound silence, and much puffing of pipes. Presently a voice from the corner.

"I say, Billy, did you say 'errings?"

"Yes; I said 'errings."

A Gleam of Intelligence.

"I thought you said this horse you sold me was an intelligent, reliable animal."

She seated herself in the rear end of the car, among the tobacco consumers, although there was plenty of room forward

Every time the man next to her puffed his cigar she looked unhappy.

At last she turned sharply to the conductor and said:

"Smoking is very disagreeable to me."

"Is it?" he rejoined, sympathetically. "It certainly is."

After a profound silence she resumed. "Well, aren't you going to do something or say something about it?"

"Why—er—certainly."

"I wish you wouldn't lose any time."

"If I were in your place, and smoking was disagreeable to me, why—er"—

"Well, sir"

"Why, I wouldn't smoke."

He meant it kindly, but she got off the car and reported him to the company just the same.—Washington Star.

Just Like a Man.

Mrs. Somebody, who lives on Thirteenth street, has an infant son who is just beginning to walk. Last week he fell down stairs, so his mother bought a gate to put at the top of the stairs. There is a little metal socket screwed to each side of the stairs and the gate fits into these. It was put up one day, Wednesday, I think. It was Mr. Somebody's night at the lodge and Mrs. Somebody remembered after he had left the house that he had not been told of the gate. She was so exercised for fear he would fall over it when he came in that she sat up for him; He was late, very late, and she was very tired. And yet when he did come and realized how devotedly she had waited up in order to save him a tumble what do you think the heartless man said?

"Why, my dear," said he, "why didn't you just lift the gate out?"

"Wasn't that just like a man?"—Washington Post.

Only Another Malapropism.

She was a very stout woman—stouter than stout women usually are. Ballasted with a basket, two parcels and a baby, she bucked her way to the only seat in the car. Already in half the seat was a slip of a girl, fresh and Maylike, as girls are apt to be nowadays.

The young girl had a big bunch of lilacs in her lap. The stout woman, with the eight-o'clock-in-the-morning perspiration, mopped some of it from her head and face. Then the lilacs caught her eye.

These lilacs looked deliciously cool and fresh, and the stout woman felt uncommonly warm. The situation was a fatal one and imperative. The stout woman felt impelled to do justice to it. She did. She looked at the flowers again, then at the young girl, then straight up into space and came out with, "My, ain't them lilacs flagrant!"—Philadelphia Call.

GOOD TASTE IN FURNITURE

IS something to be thankful for at this season. You can't have good taste, though, unless you cultivate it; and that takes time. We have spent some years in cultivating our taste in Furniture and in helping others to cultivate their's. This is one way we do that—by not allowing any furniture in our store that is not in good taste. One element in good taste that most people overlook is QUALITY. It comes before decoration, every time.

Our Terms and Prices always suit. If you haven't got the money to pay all down, a little each Week or Month will do.

HEAVY TRAFFIC.

Sixty-one Freight Trains Between Chicago and Crestline

Inside of Twelve Hours—Heaviest Traffic in the History of the Road—Local Gossip.

Not for many years have the Pittsburg trainmen been as busy as they are at present. In fact there is such a demand for their service that they have no time for anything but work and sleep, and sometimes they have to cut the latter short Yesterday was the banner day of the season, so far as the movement of freight is concerned, there being at one time sixty-one freight trains in transit between Crestline and Chicago, thirty-six of them westbound and twenty five eastbound. Included in the number was a solid stock train of thirty seven cars and a solid cotton train of thirty six cars, which were turned over to the road by one of its Chicago connections. All local trains were annulled and the locomotives and crews were put into the through freight service. The train sheets show that between 6 a. m and 6 p. m. yesterday there were sent out of Crestline 647 cars and out of Chicago 296 cars, making 937 cars, which, added to the number sent out previous to that hour and then in transit would swell the total number of cars moving east or west to something like 1,700. And there is no diminution of the traffic or indications that it will dimish any for some time.

WILL TEST COAL.

The coal used on the western divisions of the Pittsburg, Fort Wayne and Chicago road is drawn from sixteen distinct sources, each differing in some manner from the other. This difference, chiefly in the heating and lasting qualities of the fuel, is the source of much annoyance and expense to the company sometimes and it has been decided to investigate the matter thoroughly and discard that which is inferior and in the future use only the good. With this end in view D. F. Crawford, assistant master mechanic, is preparing to test the coal, each variety to be treated separately and put through three tests. For this purpose apparatus will be put up in the electric light engine room and the tests made at night, when that engine is in motion. Mr. Crawford will be assisted in the work by L. G. Dailey, of Master Car Builder James A. Graham's office.

A PLEASANT EVENT.

There was a Thanksgiving entertainment at 106 Calhoun street last evening, which was undoubtedly one of the most enjoyable of the several similar events in the city. It was given by the ladies' auxiliary of the Order of Railway Conductors and consisted of musical and literary exercises, followed by an oyster supper. The Standard Mandolin club was present and after supper the floor was cleared of chairs and the conductors and their wives and friends enjoyed a dance program of six or eight numbers. The festivities were prolonged into the "wee sma'" hours and those who participated declared they never had a better time.

BRIEF MENTION.

Supt. P. S. O'Rourke went to Grand Rapids this morning.

Nickel Plate Fireman Meyers is off duty to attend to private affairs.

James Moore and Mike Kinney, of the Pittsburg car shops, are sick.

E. P. Ripley, as president of the Santa Fe system, will receive a salary of $50,000 per annum, says a Boston paper.

Blacksmith Henry Dreyer resumed work in the Pittsburg shops this morning. He was sick nearly one month.

After an illness of ten days Brakeman Deatrick was able to resume his duties on the Nickel Plate yesterday.

M Feuchter, the Pittsburg blacksmith, who had a hand burned a few days ago, reported for duty this morning.

H. Trosin, a car inspector, was sent to Valparaiso this morning to relieve an employe of the Pittsburg who is sick.

George C. Scott, of Shop Clerk Meegan's office, has resumed his duties after a pleasant visit with friends in Peru.

George Wirth, Pittsburg telegraph operator, has so far recovered from typhoid fever as to be able to walk about his room.

The Wabash lines earned in the third week of November $259,624 65, an increase over the corresponding week of 1894 of $2,635.75.

The passenger earnings of the Wabash lines since July 1st show an increase over the corresponding period of 1894 of over $200,000.

The Pennsylvania lines have handled thus far this year 5,336 605 tons more of coal and coak than in the corresponding period of 1894.

The Big Four employes have decided to open the new shops at Wabash with a grand dedication ball, the event to take place early in January.

The Wagner Palace Car company has given orders to its works to build fifteen new sleeping cars, to be up to the highest standard in every respect

Nickel Plate engine 19 is out of the shops, looking as good as new. She will go into the freight service on the third district, in charge of Engineer Van Tilburg.

George White will be acting timekeeper in the down town Pittsburg car shops for several weeks, L. G. Dailey, the regular time clerk, having been called to another department.

Joseph Smith, of the Bass boiler shop, was struck in the face yesterday by a heavy piece of line shafting, which fell from the ceiling The iron struck him on the nose, inflicting a painful injury.

George Sweringen, of the Pennsylvania offices, has taken a few days' vacation. Today he attended the Sweringen-Meisse wedding at Decatur, the particulars of which appear elsewhere in The Sentinel.

Henry Geerkens, boilermaker in the Pittsburg shops, is rejoicing over the favorable turn the disease which has prostrated his daughter so long has taken. The young lady will probably be able to sit up in a few days.

Hayden Cherry, a stenographer in the Pittsburg car office, returned from a hunting expedition in Ohio at 6 o'clock last evening, footsore and weary. He carried one lone rabbit which he says he shot, though there were no marks of violence on bunnie's body.

Boilermaker E L Little, of the Pittsburg, is sick and off duty.

G. F. Miller, a flue welder at the Pittsburg shops, is off duty on account of sickness.

J. Morisey and Thomas Lynch, boilermakers, have taken positions in the Pittsburg shops.

M. S. Wilson, foreman of the testing department of the electric works, is off duty today, to attend a funeral.

Mrs Petzinger, the aged mother of Boilermaker Charles F. Petzinger, of the Pittsburg shops, is lying very ill.

Engines 201 and 122 were turned out of the Pittsburg shops this morning, and 245 and 267 were taken in for repairs.

The electric works shipped an 80 light Wood arc dynamo to New York this morning. Thence it will go to Mexico.

The Bass blacksmiths were compelled to work yesterday, the company having some work on hand that could not be delayed.

L H Lose, J. V. Palmer and John Kaiser failed to report for duty at the Pittsburg shops this morning and it is feared they are sick.

The Grand Rapids and Indiana company will build a new depot at Decatur, after the improved style of architecture for such structures.

Engineer Harry Dart, formerly of the Grand Rapids and Indiana road, is now running a Wabash engine between Andrews and Tilton, and has moved to the latter place.

Conductor McCormack resumed charge of his train on the Nickel Plate yesterday, after a ten days absence, which he spent in singing lullabies to his new daughter.

At the shops of the Grand Trunk an elegant private car is being built, to be used by Sir Charles Rivers Wilson, president of the company, on his trip when in this country.

John Lyons has resigned as manager of the Nickel Plate restaurant and Wilmer Wilkinson has taken charge of affairs. Mr. Wilkinson is the son of Detective Thomas Wilkinson.

Freight officials look for a heavy live stock traffic for some months to come, and are getting stock cars in shape to handle it. This line of cars has been neglected, so much more were box cars needed.

Some weeks ago a report was sent out from Pittsburg that the operating departments of the Fort Wayne and the Panhandle lines would be consolidated, to save expenses. The officials deny the story.

Owing to the low stage of the rivers hundreds of thousands of cross ties sold to railways are piled on river banks awaiting a rise in the streams to ship them. Between New Albany and Leavenworth, on the Ohio, one contractor has 160,500 ties piled up for Indiana roads.

West of Pittsburg and Erie for the month of October, 1895, as compared with the same month in 1894, the statement of the business of the Pennsylvania lines shows an increase in gross earnings of $417,064 37, an increase in expenses of $101,952 86, and an increase in net earnings of $315,-093 51.

Orders have been issued to the Pennsylvania car inspector at this point to hold all freight cars, whether they belong to the company or some other company, that are not equipped with grab irons. The Pennsylvania company proposes to obey the law in the equipment of cars, as well as in all things else.

Indianapolis Journal: "With some railway attorneys and railway officials a belief prevails that before twelve months the Brice syndicate will control the Indiana, Decatur and Western and the Toledo, St. Louis and Kansas City, which would give the Lake Erie and Western great prestige The idea is, however, one of speculation on the part of these gentlemen."

The Nickel Plate was compelled to borrow a line from the Pittsburg yesterday, while the linemen were engaged in putting up some poles and connecting wires at Knox and thereabouts.

Supt. J. B Barnes, Supt. E. A Gould, Road Master A B. Adams, Attorney Stuart, Trainmaster J. J. Sims and Claim Agent J L Head are in the city on business connected with the Wabash road.

Joseph Harber, of No 2 Center street, the well known Nickel Plate fireman, who has been very dangerously ill for some weeks is slowly improving, being able to be out yesterday for the first time

The foot ball game at Lakeside park yesterday morning, between the Keystones, of the Pittsburg shops, and a team composed of employes of Rhinesmith & Simonson, resulted in victory for the Keystones, by a score of 14 to 0

Paul Roebke, of the Fort Wayne Iron works, who was injured severely at the sham battle during the centennial, will be given a benefit by the Empire theatrical people on the evening of December 3 The affair will be in the hands of the Fort Wayne Rifles, which assures its success

The engine hauling the fourth section of Pittsburg train 72, got off the rails at Etna Green at 6 10 o'clock this morning, as it was pulling its train in on the siding. The Warsaw work train crew went out and put the engine on the rails. The west-bound limited was delayed one hour by the accident

Local Wabash officials were officially notified this morning of the appointment of Joseph Ramsey, jr., to the general management of the system, the same to become effective December 1 Mr. Hays will not assume his office on the Grand Trunk until the new year, but he desired to be released from the Wabash Sunday next, so he could have a month for recreation

The Pennsylvania company will dispose of all its old style passenger equipment and in its place put the most modern equipment, even to the express and baggage cars The passenger coaches are to be similar to those exhibited at the world's fair. It is proposed to have the western Pennsylvania lines as well equipped as are the Pennsylvania lines east of Pittsburg

Last evening, at 7 o'clock, at 29 Grand street, Rev. Brown united Charles Dean and Miss Gracie DeFrench in marriage, a few friends of the bride and groom being present. Mr. Dean is employed in the Pittsburg blacksmith shop and quietly showed up for work this morning It is the custom of the men in that establishment to treat the groom with an anvil serenade, but none knew of Charles' marriage until about 9 o'clock, when one of the boys came around and told them.

To Prevent Consolidation.

New York Nov. 29—Notice has been served upon the Central Trust company, of this city, by counsel of a Connecticut bondholder of the Chicago gas companies, to show cause, on December 11, before the attorney general of New York, why suit should not be brought against that institution to prevent the attempted consolidation of the Chicago gas properties.

What is the use of dressing up to pay a call when that cough makes you a burden to yourself and a nuisance to your friends? Take something for it. There is nothing as good as a twenty-five cent bottle of Ely's Pineola Balsam, which is soothing to the throat and beneficial in all diseases of the throat and lungs. It will releive the cough at once and in a few days you will almost forget that you have had a cough.

The Most Unkindest Cut of All.

Pausing before the editor's desk, Mr Hayre Tubane laid a bulky manuscript thereon and smiled indulgently upon the universe at large.

A half hour later, when the bell was answered, the editor bade the office boy get his rubber boots.

"Hurry up," he added impatiently "I've got some slush here to wade through."

With sad misgivings eating into his very vitals, Mr Hayre Tubane picked up his manuscript and without a word faded away into the darkness and the night.

ROOTS. ROOTS.

THE RESULT IS MOST NATURAL.

ROOT'S Sets the object lesson for every business house in this section of the state.

People go Where They Are Sure of the Best.

Harper's Bazaar, that good paper, has a short story in the issue of 19ult, worth reading. It's about a popular fabric—fibre Chamios—interesting, cleverly put and many good points in it. We don't endorse all of them, but we do fibre Chamois, the genuine, and that's the kind we sell. Astonishing the demand for it—we have interlinings, that look like fibre Chamois—quite good, too—and sell them at about half the price—but the people generally want the genuine—good linings at right prices is what has built up this great and growing lining department. It's a store by itself—more salespeople in this one department for linings and dress findings than we used to have in our whole store.

Ladies' Hand Bags.

Are one of the most popular things of the day—to have something in the hand is necessary and ladies always carry the useful. Our Holiday line is in the neat Castelaine Bags, small, medium and common sizes.

25c Each up to $3.50.

HAND BAGS—Seal, Alligator—half silk, half leather; out side and inside pockets.

25c Each up to $5.00.

Embroidered Flannels.

There are some embroidered in White, some in Blue, some in Red, Black, Yellow and Pink, and a good generous collection of varities, 50c, 60c, 75c, 85c, 90c, $1 yd.

Children's Coats.

There's nothing so pretty and good for Children of 2 years up to 4, as Coats made of Eider Down. Two pretty lots we show that are below anything that ever left the store.
Price of one.....$1.25.
Price of other.....$1 50.

Ready-Made Sheets And Pillow Cases.

If you are in a hurry for bed clothing a trip to the store will help you out in short order. Sheets and Pillow Cases, made of good muslins, good lengths and widths—to fit every bed.
Sheets, 81x90 inches.....48c.
Sheets, 81x90 inches.....55c.
Sheets, 90x90 inches.....60c.
Sheets 90½x99 inches.....85c.

Miss Emma Rodenbeck delightfully entertained last evening in honor of Miss Lottie Polk, of Logansport. A most enjoyable game of progressive pedro was played, and at 11 o'clock a delicious lunch was served in the dining room.

Wednesday evening, at the home of the bride's parents at Lagrange, Ind., Miss Elmer Appleman was married to Will Allen, of Van Wert, Ohio. Mr. and Mrs. Allen spent Thanksgiving in this city the guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Probasco and left last evening for Atlanta and a tour of the south.

The many friends of Rev. Father Delaney will be glad to know that he has almost fully recovered from his recent illness. He was able to be on the street yesterday for the first time Next Sunday he will occupy his pulpit in St. Patrick's church and will preach his first sermon since he was taken down.

Last evening, at the Standard club, was given a full dress reception and ball. Reineke's orchestra furnished the music for the dance program, and a sumptuous supper was served in the dining hall. Among the out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs S. Hirsh, of Chicago; the Misses Levi, of Peru; Miss Bertha Phillipson, of Wabash, and J. Phillipson, of Chicago.

FOOT BALL DAY.

Games Were Played All Over the Country.

A Hot Game at Lakeside Park Results in a Tie—Prima Beats Secunda at Concordia.

The football game at Concordia college between the Prima and Secunda teams was a good one and one of the most hotly contested games that has been seen here for many a day. Prima was the best team in weight and by superior all round playing won the game by a score of 18 to 8 Secunda did some good work but she was outplayed at every point.

A TIE GAME.

The Kendallville High school team came here yesterday and battled with the Fort Wayne High school team at Lakeside. It was an exciting game. These teams had already played a tie game this season the score being 6 to 6, and the game yesterday also resulted in a tie, neither side being able to score a point. The teams lined up in the order published in THE SENTINEL yesterday.

REAL CHARITY.

A Great Supply of Food and Clothing Donated.

List of the Articles Received at the Rink—Liberal Receipts at the English Lutheran Church.

The people of Fort Wayne yesterday showed their charitable nature They responded to the call for donations for the poor in a way that was extremely gratifying

At the Princess Rink the articles received were the following: $128 05 in money, 85 sacks flour, 12 sacks buckwheat flour, 60 sacks corn meal, 2 bushels apples, 2½ bushels beans, 75 pounds sugar, 60 cans fruit, 30 cans vegetables, 40 bushels potatoes, 1 barrel hominy, 1 barrel cream meal, 10 pounds tea, 40 pound's coffee, 25 loaves bread, 3 quarters mutton, 12 chickens, 3 turkeys, 160 bundles clothing.

About twenty-five families who were in immediate need were given relief at once, and the rest of the great supply was turned over to the Associated Charities, by whom it will be placed when it is needed.

At the English Lutheran church the donations also reached a very large amount. Two or three big wagon loads of necessities were received at the church and turned over to the Relief Union of the city.

These munificent offerings by the people of the city who are more fortunate than their poor brothers, were in keeping with the spirit of Thanksgiving day, and the generous givers will receive the prayers of those whose wants are relieved through their kindness.

Silver Wedding Anniversary.

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Schoch, the merchant tailor, on Wednesday evening, at 8 o'clock, occurred the celebration of their silver wedding anniversary, which was a most enjoyable and pleasant affair. Rev. S. H. Baumgartner made a few appropriate remarks for the occasion, after which their children and invited guests offered their hearty congratulations. They received many handsome silver presents. Those present were their children: William, his wife and daughter; Edward, Lizzie and Albert, Jacob Mosiman, of Vera Cruz, Ind., father of Mrs. Schoch; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Mosiman, of Bluffton; Mr. and Mrs. S. REMAINS CRITICAL.

The Political Situation in the East.

A Crisis May be Expected Within Twenty-four Hours—Warlike Demonstrations at Constantinople.

CONSTANTINOPLE, via Sofia, Bulgaria, Nov. 29.—The political situation remains critical, and the crisis may be expected within the ensuing twenty-four hours.

The sultan, who is more thoroughly under the influence of the palace party, led by Izzet Bey, still declines to grant the firmans applied for by the representatives of Great Britian, Russia, Italy and Austria, for the passage of the extra guard ships through the straits of Dardanelles. This is the more extraordinary as on Tuesday last Tewfik Pasha, the Turkish minister for foreign affairs, personally assured Sir Philip Currie that the porte had determined to grant immediately the permission required. It would thus seem that while the Turkish ministers are apparently in favor of granting the firmans, the "palace party," - valets, priests, chamberlains and others, who are the real advisors of Abdul Hamid, are opposed to it as calculated to lower the dignity of the sultan.

Meantime the Mussulmans are growing uneasy, looking upon the threatened advent of the extra guardships as nothing less than a warlike demonstration before Constantinople. This is a dangerous feature of the affair and is adding to the anxiety felt on all sides.

In spite of the threatened aspect, however, the sultan persists in his refusal to issue the firmans and has again made an evasive reply to the British ambassadors' representations on the subject. But Sir Philip Currie, when assured by Tewfik Pasha that the firmans would be forthcoming, promptly telegraphed to the admiral in command of the British Mediterranean squadron, instructing him to dispatch a gun boat to the Dardenelles, to be used in the Bosphorus as an extra guardship at the disposal of the British embassy. As a result, the twin-screw torpedo gun boat Dryad, 1,070 tons, carrying four seven inch and four six pounder quick firing guns, was despatched to the Dardanelles, and is expected to arrive at Chanakale today and pass right on to the Bosphorus.

The failure of the porte to grant permission for the passage of the Straits of the Dardanelles thus puts Sir Philip Currie in a somewhat embarrassing position, the only escape from which is to order away the Dryad or to insist that she be allowed to pass in, backing up the order by force, if that should be necessary.

The sultan is known to be in a state of the greatest agitation at the news that the extra British gunboat is heading for the Dardanelles, on the strength of the assurances given the British ambassador by the minister of foreign affairs, and, consequently, the position of Tewfik Pasha is not a pleasant one. The latter was sent for at midnight and an exciting interview took place between him and the sultan, during which the latter bitterly and tearfully reproached Tewfik Pasha for his action in the matter. The pasha tried to justify himself by recalling that the granting of this firmans had been agreed to in substance by the sultan, and that he, as in duty bound, so informed Sir Philip Currie, when the latter sent an urgent message asking for a prompt reply to several communications on the subject. The sultan insisted that it was impossible to issue the firmans, as it would cause rioting in Constantinople, and that the powers should be content with the measures taken by the government to maintain order and not hamper the authorities by making a demonstration likely to undo all the good he was endeavoring to do. The sultan then instructed Tewfik Pasha to do everything possible to induce the British ambassador to countermand his order for the gunboat. Sir Philip, however, refused to do so, saying that he was tired of being trifled with, and reminding his visitor that Great Britain was acting entirely within her treaty rights, and upon assurance of a responsible member of the Turkish government, that the porte had decided to grant permissions for the extra guard boats to pass the Dardanelles. Tewfik Pasha returned to the palace in a very unenviable frame of mind and announced the failure of his mission to the sultan. The latter is said to have been frantic with rage and drove Tewfik from his presence with fierce revilings. The president of the state council said Pasha, who is supposed to have some influence with Sir Philip Currie, was thereupon hurriedly sent for, and reaching the apartments of the sultan after 1:30 a. m. Abdul Hamid eagerly besought him to go immediately to the British ambassador and spare no effort to induce him to order the recall of the Dryad. The entreaties of said Pasha seem to have had weight with the ambassador, for Sir Philip finally consented to place the whole matter at that late hour once more before his government and to await further instructions, although he is understood to have carte blanche as to what steps he thinks it necessary to take in treating with the sultan. This morning the British ambassador is awaiting a reply from London. The Turkish officials believe the marquis of Salisbury, acting upon the understanding that nothing is to be done to hinder the efforts of the sultan in the work of maintaining order, may instruct Sir Philip to direct the commander of the Dryad not to enter the Dardanelles at present.

Abdul Hamid appears to have completely lost his head, the public service is entirely disorganized, the cabinet ministers are being sent for from the palace at all hours of the day and night and may be said to be in almost constant attendance at the Yildiz Kiosk. Everybody is anxious and worried, the ambassadors being as tired as everybody else here at the long months of almost fruitless efforts to induce the sultan to really govern his empire with some degree of common sense.

The little news received here from Asiatic Turkey only tends to make the situation look blacker. The hurrying of troops to Syria and Palestine continues and there is no doubt that the rebellious Druses will have to submit to a heavy reckoning with the Turks for their uprising.

The flames of a holy war, always smouldering among the Mussulmans, are being dangerously fanned and may at any time burst forth into a conflagration which will compel all Europe to take a hand in saving the lives and property of many thousands of almost helpless Christians. A stray shot, a sharp blow may explode the powder magazine with which the weak-minded Abdul Hamid has been toying so long.

Every report which reaches Constantinople not only confirms the stories of reported outrages but adds to the list of horrors recorded and swells the death roll by hundreds daily.

Blood, fire and famine have been stalking unchecked if not encouraged throughout the Asiatic dominions of the Turk and the hour, it is again said, cannot long be delayed when Europe must cry "halt" to the blood thirsty infidel and the cross be raised against the green banner of Mahomet.

From Erzeroum some additional news was forthcoming today, but it only served to paint the picture blacker and redder. More attempts to exterminate the Christian population of that city and vicinity have been made and the Armenians who survive are actually being induced by their priests to embrace Islamism to save their lives.

The last outbreak at Erzeroum, according to the official account of the affair, was of a trifling nature, only eight persons were killed and is attributed by the governor of Erzeroum to an encounter between agents of the tobacco internal revenue department and some smugglers. The Armenian versions of the affair put an entirely different complexion upon the disturbance, saying the number of killed was much greater and that the rioting was occasioned by the Turks."

SENATOR PALMER

Expresses Himself Forcibly on Presidential Candidates.

Not in Favor of Cleveland for a Third Term—Wants a Western Man.

CHICAGO, Nov. 29.—A Washington special to the Journal-Press says: "The democratic party has done many foolish things but in Heaven's name let us not violate our most sacred tradition by nominating Cleveland for a third term."

So said Senator John M. Palmer today, he added:

"I don't think he would accept, but whether he would or not, we should not think of nominating him again. I am a supporter of Cleveland, but not for a third term—either Cleveland or anybody else east. Let us have a western man next time—Morrison, if he wants it; Carlisle, if he will take it. Legislation this session wont be anything to speak of either for currency or to make up the deficiency. We will be in session about eight months president-making. I would not be surprised if the session would bring out some presidential timber on both sides thus far unknown."

Senator Palmer scoffs at the talk of war with England over Venezuela, and says that if the Cuban insurgents represent the great body of the natives and are fighting for the liberty of the whole people, he is with them. He believes that Tanner will be the next governor of Illinois and Cannon the next senator.

Refused a New Trial.

PITTSBURG, PA., Nov. 29.—In the county courts today Judge Horton refused a motion for a new trial in the case against Andrew Wall, convicted of conspiracy. Ward is the vice president of the Fidelity Building and Loan association, of Pittsburg. No opinion was filed. He will likely be sentenced tomorrow.

Lynched the Wrong Men.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 29.—A local paper prints a letter from Arizona signed John Doe, in which the writer says he committed the murder for which Garland Stemler and Louis Moreno were lynched by a mob at Yreka, Cal., last August. Two other men were lynched at the same time.

Asphyxiated by Gas.

CHICAGO, Nov. 29.—Two sailors, S. H. Richards and Benjamin Nugent, were asphyxiated by gas in their room in a boarding house, 80 Wells street, early this morning. From letters found it is believed they belonged to the steamer Egyptian. It is not known whether they committed suicide or not.

Missionaries Safe.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—The state department has advices from Minister Terrell stating that the missionary school of France at Marasch was burned on the 10th, but that the missionaries are safe. He also telegraphs that the Aintab college is protected.

SETTLED THE FIGHT.

Ohio and Indiana Declare for McDowell and Glenn

As Clerk and Doorkeeper of the National House—The Slate as it Reads Now.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—Indiana played an important part in settling the house organization fight. When twelve of the Indiana delegation, all except Mr. Johnson, decided to support McDowell, of Pennsylvania, for clerk; Ohio quickly followed suit, and the alleged "combination," with McDowell at its head, on the strength of these new recruits, ran up the emblem of victory. Mr. Johnson, who arrived last night with Mr. Tracewell, took a decided stand for his old colleague on the committee of banking and currency, General Henderson, of Illinois, and he will vote for the latter, if Henderson stays in the race.

On every hand it is conceded that Indiana settled the clerkship fight. Henderson is still making a show of fight, but his friends were making overtures to the McDowell "combination" for the office of sergeant-at-arms, which looks significant. Being refused, Henderson renewed his fight for the clerkship, although he has no show of winning.

All the Indiana congressmen are here. By the terms of the "deal" with the McDowell "combine" Indiana will get a good share of house patronage. The most important, perhaps, is the office of journal clerk, which goes to Thomas H. McKee, of Logansport, the unsuccessful candidate for sergeant at arms. Steele, of Marion, made a play for this recognition of McKee. He will succeed N. T. Critchfield, of Kentucky, and will defeat Harry Smith, of Michigan, who held the office for many years. Captain McKee is very much perturbed over a private circular sent out from Logansport to members of the Indiana delegation abusing him. He is threatening several kinds of vengeance.

Ohio and Indiana have declared for McDowell and Glenn for clerk and doorkeeper, respectively, of the house, and there is now practically no doubt of the election of ex-Representative McDowell as clerk, although General Henderson, of Illinois, says he is still in the race. Mr. McDowell's friends are claiming today that he has 180 votes, and while General Henderson's supporters do not concede so many, the majority of them admit the strong probability of the election of the Pennsylvania man by a considerable large majority.

General Henderson, when asked today if he intended to continue in the race for clerk, replied that such was his intention. "My banner," he said, "is still on the outer walls. I will not continue the quotation to the extent of saying, 'the cry is, still they come,' for I have never made any claims. I do not, however, consider the contest settled until the house caucus shall pass upon it, and I shall hold out until that time." He added that he had considered some of the Ohio delegates pledged to him, and said that even with half of Ohio or the Indiana delegation he could be nominated. There is an effort in certain quarters to obtain General Henderson's consent to transfer his candidacy to the contest for sergeant at arms, but he has not yet consented to this arrangement, and it is being bitterly opposed by the friends of Mr. Russell, who is the candidate of the McDowell-Glenn coalition for this place.

Ohio probably secures the postmastership by endorsing McDowell, and it is understood that Captain McKee, of Indiana, who has been Mr. Russell's chief avowed opponent for sergeant-at-arms, is to be made journal clerk, Mr. McKee abandoning his contest for the elective office.

The present slate for the elective offices of the house reads:

Clerk—Alexander McDowell, of Pennsylvania.

Sergeant at Arms—Benj. F. Russell, of Missouri.

Doorkeeper—W. J. Glenn, of New York.

Postmaster—J. C. McElroy, of Ohio.

Chaplain—The Rev. Mr. Fisher, of Kansas.

The house caucus will be held Saturday night.

The president came into town today and the cabinet gathered for the last meeting before the assembling of congress. Naturally, the annual message of the president was the leading topic for discussion, the reports of the cabinet having all been prepared with the exception of those of the secretary of the treasury and the attorney general. The message itself is nearing completion rapidly and probably will go to the printer tomorrow or Sunday next. At the printing office all preparations have been made for its handling and a force of carefully selected men will soon turn the typewritten copy into print.

Ex-Speaker Crisp arrived here this morning from his Georgia home and after consultation with some of the democratic leaders, it was decided to hold the house democratic caucus tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock. The caucus will probably be very brief, as no attempt will be made to outline a policy at the coming session. The line of action to be pursued by the democrats will depend upon the developments of the majority. The caucus will select minority candidates for the house offices, undoubtedly renominating the officers of the fifty-third house of representatives, a caucus chairman and an officer to represent the minority as a "whip" on the floor will be chosen also. Judge Holman, of Indiana, who has been chairman of the democratic caucus for several congresses, is not in the present house, and it is generally believed that the caucus will select Amos J. Cummings, of New York, for this honor.

Hon Walter Evans, republican representative-elect from the Louisville, Ky., district, when asked today concerning published reports quoting him as saying that he was not a candidate for United States senator to succeed Blackburn, said that he never had made any such statement and that it was incorrect. Mr. Evans is in the senatorial race.

GOV. MATTHEWS' RECORD

On the Money Question Being Inquired Into

By Eastern Democrats—Want a Hard Money Man—To Get Senator Hill's Support.

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 29.—Some concern has been expressed by the friends of Governor Matthews lest his utterances on the money question militate against his prospects of becoming the democratic national standard bearer in 1896. Thursday night a New York man sent out here by a number of eastern democrats who are staunch supporters of the hard-money idea returned east with a bundle of papers containing speeches by the governor on the money and other public questions. The man came very quietly, and approaching a well-known political friend of the governor's, stated his object in coming west. He wanted to obtain from the governor some tangible statement as to his position on the silver question, hoping that Mr. Matthew's stand would be one that the eastern hard-money democrats could indorse. While the governor's friends realized that the visit meant a recognition in the east of the formidable candidacy of the Indiana man, yet he feared that an expression by the Governor would only warrant the opposition of these hard money men.

The governor's friends believe that there will be a strong anti-convention fight made on him on the ground of his silver utterances, but they expect to overcome eastern opposition by a solid western support.

The same men who are working so assiduously to properly lay the plans for Mr. Matthews in 1896, are looking forward to the visit of Senator Hill to this city on December 11, when he delivers his lecture. They know the antagonism of Hill to Cleveland would probably array the senator against any effort Cleveland might make to name the next democratic nominee, and they are hopeful that Senator Hill's support may be secured for Mr. Matthews. Despite Hill's unpopularity outside New York, he still has a very strong hold on the machine of that state.

A DEMENTED WOMAN

Leaps From a Northwestern Railway Train,

And is Instantly Killed—Accompanied by a Crazy Son—Were Morphine Fiends.

MADISON, Wis., Nov. 29.—As the northbound train on the Northwestern road reached Shapiere, Wisconsin, last night, an elderly woman travelling with her ten-year-old grandson, became violently insane and caused a panic among the passengers. The conductor ordered all others from the car and locked the woman and boy inside. When the train arrived at Evansville, it was discovered that the woman was missing. Investigation showed that she had leaped through the window from the train. The boy remained in the car. It was found he too was demented and could give no account of what transpired.

Word was telegraphed back to Janesville and a searching party organized this morning found the woman's body beside the track, seven miles south of Janesville, evidently instantly killed. The body was brought to this city. In the woman's satchel was found a way bill of goods which showed the woman's name was Mrs. Vodra, traveling from Champlain, N. Y., to Springfield, Minn. The bill was signed B. W. Brown, Champlain. In the satchel were also found seven bottles of morphine and a box of morphine powders. The body will be sent to Champlain.

AN OLD GRUDGE

Causes Kirk Eller to Shoot James Martin.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 29.—At a Thanksgiving celebration in Johnson county, yesterday, James Martin and Kirk Eller, who had long held a grudge against each other, got into a fight. Martin drew his rifle on Eller and the latter shot him with a pistol. Martin lived a few hours. A mob gathered to lynch Eller, but he was landed safely in the Mountain City jail.

ETERNAL LIFE GAINED.

The Four Steps the Sinner Must Take To be Saved.

Conviction of Sin, Contrition, or Sorrow for Sin, Conversion and Confession—Dr. Chapman's Sermon.

Dr. Chapman preached last night at the Princess rink to an audience of nearly four thousand people, every seat in the immense building being occupied, and many more sought but were refused admission at the doors because of the crowded condition of the rink.

The meeting was begun with the usual song service. These are always interesting, but last night they were especially so. The opening hymn was by the big chorus choir and then the Haydn and Linden quartets, the two finest men church choirs in the city, sang a piece together, after which each one of the quartets rendered a selection alone, and then Professor and Mrs. Lowe sang.

The prayer was offered by Rev. A. A. Hundley, the pastor of the Christ's Lutheran church, the church chorus choir sang a hymn and then Dr. Chapman arose and began his sermon, his theme being, "What Must I Do to be Saved?" His text was taken from the sixteenth chapter of Acts, using a portion of the thirtieth and thirty-first verses reading as follows:

"Sirs, what must I do to be saved?" and "Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ and thou shalt be saved."

The question was the one asked by the jailor at the time Paul and Silas were liberated from prison by an earthquake, and the answer was that given to him by the apostles.

Taking this question and answer as the foundation for his discourse, the evangelist made clear the plan of salvation and delivered a sermon that was convincing and convicting. In brief his sermon outlined four steps that the sinner must take in order to be saved from his sins and inherit eternal life.

1st. Conviction. He must believe that he is a sinner and unworthy, in his sinful condition, of God's love and mercy.

2nd. Contrition. There must be sorrow for the sins committed, a grief of heart for having done wrong towards God, and a determination to live in obedience to the divine law.

3rd. Conversion. There must be a change of heart, in which the enmity to God and His law are displaced by love for Him and an acceptance of the conditions in His plan of salvation, belief and faith in Jesus Christ as a saviour.

4th. Confession. There must be an acknowledgment, a confession on the lips of the change felt in the heart, and a profession of the faith which has been accepted.

In treating of his text the speaker mentioned each of these four steps in detail. If I had a blackboard, he said, I would write a great big capital C, and after it four words of which it should be the initial letter.

The first word I would write would be "Conviction." That is the first thing—a man must be convinced that he is a sinner before he can accept Christ. Nicodemus was no common sinner. He was a member of the Sanhedrim, a man of blameless life, but Jesus said to him, "Ye must be born again." Conviction must come first, but conviction may assume different forms with different people. Stanley tells us of a race of men he found in Africa who did not know they were black until they saw a white man. So we may not know ourselves sinners until we come to compare ourselves with the standard God has set up.

The next word I would write is contrition. A man must be sorry for his sin. It is the broken and contrite heart that God will not despise and when the sinner comes to Him in humiliation and penitence and faith Christ will forgive him. He paid the debt of the sinner's sins on the cross and although they be as the sands of the sea, although they be red like scarlet. He will take them all upon Himself.

The next word I would write would be "conversion." The jailor was converted. When he thrust Paul and Silas into prison he did it roughly, but now he brought them out and washed their stripes. He turned square about in his conduct toward them. That's what conversion is. It means turning about from going in one direction to going in another. They tell us that 3,000 young people in Cleveland are praying God today to convert Ingersoll. I don't believe that will amount to a snap of your finger. God will never save Ingersoll or anybody else till they are willing to be saved.

The last word I would write would be confession. If you believe in your heart and confess Jesus Christ, you shall be saved. The apostle's answer to the jailor who came to him with the question, "What must I do to be saved?" was, "Believe in the Lord Jesus Christ." This was no chance stringing together of names—each word has its significance. "Lord," denotes His kingship; you believe in Him as your God, your King. You believe in Him as "Jesus," your Savior. You believe in Him as "Christ," the Annointed of the Father, the one appointed for this purpose in the counsels of infinite love.

In Mark xvi, 26, we read: "He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved." I say nothing about the form of baptism; each of you have a right to his own opinion about that, but baptism is the appointed method of confessing Christ as the Savior. I will not say that there might not be circumstances under which a man might be saved without baptism; but I do say that the man who goes up to the bar of God unbaptized can not claim that he has fully obeyed the command that has been laid upon him.

The speaker closed with an earnest plea to the sinner to come to Christ and accept Him as his Savior. Many in the great congregation raised their hands or stood upon their feet as an indication of their desire to lead a better life and an acceptance of Christ.

Mr. Chapman will preach tonight at the Princess rink, the services beginning at 7:30 o'clock.

The services tomorrow evening will be similar to those of last Saturday evening. Professor and Mrs. Lowe will give a stereopticon representation of the different hymns, combined with an interesting song service.

The hour for the Sunday afternoon meeting for women and girls will be 3:30 p. m. Meeting for men at 7:30 p. m.

POPE LEO

Presided at the Secret Consistory at Rome,

And Created Nine Cardinals and Twenty-four Bishops—Mgr. Satolli Made a Cardinal.

ROME, Nov. 29.—The pope today presided at the secret consistory and created nine cardinals, namely: The archbishops of Lomberg, Salzbourg, Valladolid and Bourges; Mgr. Satolli, the papal delegate to the Roman Catholic church in the United States; Mgr. Goth, the inter nuncio to Brazil, and the bishops of Autun, Urgel and Ancona. His holiness then preconcised twenty-four Italian bishops.

A NOVEL PLAN

To Abolish the Election of Certain State and County Officers.

BRAZIL, Ind., Nov. 29.—Judge Van Fleet, of this county, one of Indiana's best known jurists, has promulgated a novel plan for taking the election of important state and county officials in Indiana out of the hands of the people. The jurist, who promises to outline the proposed measures by the draft of a new law for the consideration of the legislature, would place all the county offices under the control of the county commissioners. The duty of the county board would be to advertise for bids for the work, and the duties of the auditor, clerk, treasurer, sheriff, recorder and surveyor should be sold to the lowest responsible bidder every four years. A good and sufficient bond would be required for the faithful performance of the duties and the officers made liable for any and all mistakes for irregularities occurring.

This, Judge Van Fleet believes, would open public work to all competent persons and put it in competition the same as bridge letting or other public service. This plan would take the county offices out of politics and stop all wrangling over the question of salary.

Judge Van Fleet would dispose of the state offices also and place the responsibility for the work in the hands of a commission composed of the governor, auditor, secretary and treasurer of state. This service he would award a person or persons on competitive bids.

This plan, Judge Van Fleet thinks, might not please politicians and office holders and seekers, but would be eminently satisfactory to the people who pay the taxes. It would also give those persons without a political pull an equal show for employment. The office of township trustees, justices of the peace, judge and members of the legislature, as well as congressmen, he would make elective.

Decrees of Foreclosure.

PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 29.—A decree of foreclosure has been taken in the United States circuit court in the suit of the Mercantile Trust company of New York against the Portland Consolidated Street Railway company. The road has been operated by a receiver for the last year. The amount of the decree is $452,775, which comprises the consolidated bonds of the company with interest. The railway system comprises thirty-one miles of electric road.

Freight Wreck.

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Nov. 29.—At Canterberg Hill on the Norfolk and Western railroad, a bad freight wreck occurred late last evening. Engineer Walter and Brakeman Hardin are fatally, and several others seriously injured. The loss to the company will run far into the thousands. Further particulars can not now be ascertained.

Work of Locusts.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—Owing to locusts, the sugar crop in Zambesia will be almost a total failure this year, according to the report of United States Consul Hollis, at Mozambique. The peanut crop is very short from the same cause and great distress exists among the natives, who are emigrating to other sections.

Terrible Battle.

MOUNT STERLING, Ky., Nov. 29.—A terrible battle took place at Hazel Green, Wolfe county, yesterday, between John Williams and David Rose, two prominent and wealthy stock traders. Williams was killed and Rose is in a dying condition. They fell out during a settlement.

Yellow Fever.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 29.—The whaleback steamer, City of Everett, from Panama, reports that yellow fever is prevalent in Guatemala, but that Panama is practically free from disease.

WITH DYNAMITE

Cuban Insurgents Blow up Railway Trains,

Injuring Passengers—Killing Cattle and Doing a Great Amount of Damage.

HAVANA, Nov. 29.—A dispatch received here from Puerto Principe announces that the insurgents have blown up with dynamite the engine of a train in the vicinity of Nuevitas, that province. The engine was demolished, the engineer and two firemen were terribly mutilated, and seven passengers were injured, among them being the widow of ex-General Ygnacio Agramonte.

The insurgents have also blown up a culvert on the railroad between Caibarien and Remedios, province of Santa Clara, destroying ten cars loaded with cattle, and killing seventy head of cattle. The engineer of the train was seriously wounded and railroad communication between the interior and Redmedios is temporarily interrupted.

THE FAIR CLOSED.

The Festival at St. Peter's Church Was Very Successful.

The fair and festival at St. Peter's Catholic church closed last night. It was very successful in every particular. Large crowds attended. In fact, last night the hall was so densely packed that it was difficult for people to move about. The feature last night was the voting contest for a flag, between Father Anthony Council No. 500, C. B. L., and Branch No. 737, C. K. of A. It was a spirited contest and it resulted in a victory for the Knights who had 1,908 votes while the Legion received 969 votes. Wednesday night a bed room set, that was contested for by a number of married ladies, was won by Mrs. John Klinkenberg.

Altogether the fair was a success and everybody who attended enjoyed it very much.

BEAUTIFUL SERVICE.

Prof. and Mrs. Lowe in Service of Song Illustrated.

Tomorrow night at the Princess rink Prof. and Mrs. Lowe, the sweet singers at the Chapman evangelistic meetings, will give an entertainment at the rink consisting of a service of song illustrated, which will be stereopticon views of the most popular hymns. The service is a most beautiful one and similar to that given by Professor and Mrs. Lowe at the rink last Saturday evening. By request they will repeat part of the views in the life of Christ as given last Saturday evening, when the rink was crowded and everybody spoke in praise of the entertainment.

ASPHYXIATED.

Rev. A. Henrich and Wife Dead at Platte Centre, Neb.

PLATTE CENTRE, Neb., Nov. 29.—This morning Rev. A. Henrich and his wife were asphyxiated by gas from their hard coal stove. Mr. Henrich was found dead and his wife was dying when neighbors forced the door. They came from Louisville, Ky., several years ago, and are well known in many states. Several children reside in Denver and have been notified.

KILLED WHILE HUNTING.

Frank Fosler Receives a Fatal Gun Shot Wound.

A Child Scalded—A Lady Breaks a Wrist—A Lakeside Car Jumps the Track.

Christian Fosler, Wabash section foreman at this point, received a telegram from White House, Ohio, last evening, informing him of a fatal accident which befell his son, Frank M. Fosler. The telegram was signed by E. R. Munsy, was received at 3:10 o'clock and briefly read: "Frank was accidentally shot today." The particulars of the accident could not be learned. Mr. Fosler left on the early Wabash train this morning for White House, intending to bring the remains of his son here for interment, but the fact that he telegraphed for his wife and daughter to go to White House leads to the belief that the remains will be buried there. Mrs. Fosler and the young lady left on train 46 this afternoon. Frank Fosler was twenty-two years old and since July last has resided with his grandmother at White House, where he was employed in a quarry. Previous to July he was employed as a fireman on the Wabash road some years. During the centennial he visited his parents, but has not been here since.

LATER.

At 3 o'clock this afternoon a message from White House stated that Frank Fosler's remains would be buried in the cemetery at that place tomorrow. The hour of the funeral was not stated.

CHILD SCALDED.

The one-year-old child of Dr. and Mrs. Carl Schilling received severe scalds yesterday at the dinner table. It put its hand into a cup of hot coffee. The hand was badly blistered and burned and the little one suffers much pain in consequence.

OFF THE TRACK.

A Lakeside street car ran off the track yesterday, but no damage was done. Several foot ball players were on the car and the accident delayed the opening of the game.

WRIST BROKEN.

Mrs. John W. McWhorter, of No. 57 West Third street, slipped upon an icy sidewalk and fell, breaking one of the bones in her wrist.

MIRACULOUS ESCAPE.

A little boy whose name was not learned, was run over by a heavy truck at the corner of Berry and Calhoun streets, this afternoon. Miraculously he escaped injury.

SALVATION BAND.

May Arrive in the City the Last of Next Week.

A Salvation Army Brass and String Band—Meetings To be Held in the Rink.

Capt. Bullock was in the city today to make arrangements to bring his Salvation Army band to this city the latter part of next week. The band consists of eighteen members who play brass and string instruments. It is at Hartford City and will stop at Bluffton a few days before arriving here. Captain Bullock wants to hold meetings in the rink after the Chapman meetings close. With the band are two Indian girls whose singing has been a great attraction all over the country. Captain Kemp is the preacher and conducts regular religious services, the band furnishing the music.

It will be a great attraction and no doubt the meetings would result in much good being done.

STOLE DRESS GOODS.

Della Whitney, Aged Seventeen, in Jail.

She Nipped the Goods in a Nebraska Store—Vows She Will Kill Herself if Released.

The police this afternoon arrested Della Whitney, a seventeen-year-old girl, for stealing thirteen yards of dress goods from the store of F. M. Schmaltz, in Nebraska. She took the goods a week ago and Mr. Schmaltz found it at a dressmaker's where the girl was having a dress made. The skirt was already finished.

The girl is rather pretty. She told a SENTINEL reporter her story as she sat in a cell at the police station this afternoon. She said: "My father is dead. My mother is now Mrs. Fremont Springer, and she lives at Churubusco. I could not stay at home with my stepfather and have been working out since I was thirteen years old. I have been in Fort Wayne about three months. About four weeks ago I lost my place, and since then I have roomed with another girl on West Main street. The charge against me is true. I never was in trouble before and when I get out of this place I will not live twenty-four hours. I will give somebody a chance to go fishing. I will kill myself, sure."

The stolen goods were recovered and are at the police station.

An Editor in Prison.

EMINENT TESTIMONY

Regarding the New Discovery for Curing Dyspepsia and Indigestion.

Dr. Hartman, who has made many tests of the new dyspepsia cure, is very enthusiastic in his praise of this excellent preparation. It is not a secret patent medicine, but is composed of pure pepsin, bismuth, fruit salts and vegetable essences, made into pleasant tasting tablets or lozenges and sold by druggists at 50 Cents per package, under the name of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

Dr. Hartman states that Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets cure dyspepsia and weak stomachs, because they possess the peculiar power of digesting whatever wholesome food is taken into the stomach. They do not act on the bowels like cathartics, but act entirely on the food, digesting it thoroughly and quickly, giving the stomach a chance to rest and recover its natural strength, which it invariably will do after a course of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. If your druggist hasn't them in stock ask him to order a small quantity from his wholesaler.

The turkey can now roost in peace until Christmas time.

Nature could not have given us a grander Thanksgiving day than we had yesterday.

"Believe in the Lord, Jesus Christ, and thou shalt be saved." That is the essence of Christianity.

The eastern question, as will be seen by our telegrams today, is growing critical and interesting.

An Indianian, Captain McKee, of Logansport, will probably be made journal clerk of the house, as will be seen by The Sentinel's Washington telegrams today.

Many homes were made happy yesterday as the result of the contributions left by the charitable people of Fort Wayne at the Princess rink. Such religion is of the practical kind.

The sermon of Dr. Chapman at the Princess rink last night was a plain and able presentation of the gospel plan of salvation. The four steps necessary are: conviction, contrition, conversion and confession.

An ordinance has been passed by the Chicago city council requiring all street cars to stop at the nearer crossings in the direction in which they are going. A fine of not less than $10 nor more than $25 is provided for each failure to comply with its terms. The object of the ordinance set forth by its advocates is to make less frequent accidents and collisions between vehicles and street cars at the crossings. Our street car company adheres to the practice of stopping at the further crossings.

And now it is the potato that scientists are discrediting. Dr. Cyrus Edson, a noted Philadelphia physician, says that the practice of feeding potatoes to infants and young children can not be too severely condemned. John Gilmer Speed asserts that the potato is responsible for the prevalence of dyspepsia among Americans. We wonder if he ever heard of an Irishman raised on potatoes and milk ever having dyspepsia. Or does either of these gentlemen know of a nation whose bone and muscle are better than those possessed by the Irish, and nurtured chiefly on a potato diet? Let them make an examination of Peter Maher, the Irish pugilist, and see if the potato is causing physical degeneracy.

The Missouri democrats have settled the differences that divided them on the finance question and both the free silver and sound money state committees will hold a joint meeting at St. Louis on the 31 of December to organize for the campaign of 1896. Noting this fact the New Albany Ledger adds: "This means democratic victory in Missouri next year. Similar action by the democrats in all the other states in which they are divided on the silver question would put the party on the line to victory all over the country."

It is possible that there may be some sort of brutal pleasure in rolling around in the mud as twenty-two young men did at the Lakeside ball grounds yesterday afternoon while playing a game of foot ball, but we cannot see wherein that pleasure consists. It is possible also that there may be pleasure in witnessing that sort of sport, but we cannot understand where the pleasure comes in. Foot ball, the way they play it in these modern days, is about as senseless and uninteresting and brutal a game, according to our way of thinking, as could be got up.

There is considerable talk of changing the rule by which a two-thirds vote is required in democratic national conventions to nominate candidates for the presidency and vice presidency. It is now proposed to make a majority vote sufficient to nominate, as the practice is in republican national conventions. The two-thirds rule was adopted some forty years ago in order to defeat an undesirable aspirant. It has the advantage of ruling out men of doubtful popularity, but the disadvantage of prolonging nominations and bringing mediocre men to the front. The republican majority practice has the advantage of giving every aspirant a fair show, with no favors to anybody.

Persons just arrived from Alaska tell conflicting stories about British designs and demonstrations in that quarter. Some declare that there is no doubt but the British meditate a grab at the trade and even the territory belonging to the United States, and even that posts are being established and armed forces moved about with that end in view. Other messengers from the far country assert that no hostile or aggressive move of any sort is being made, and that the only armed force about is a small body of Canadian police who look after robbers on the road into and out of the gold region. The latter story is the most probable. If there is any serious differences of opinion between the United States and Great Britain about the Alaska boundary it is not to be settled by armed intervention or occupation by either party, but according to the modern custom of civilized nations in dealing with each other—by reference and arbitration.

The Knights of Labor, in their convention last week, adopted resolutions unqualifiedly condemning the use of militia for the suppression of labor troubles. In this the Knights were certainly wrong. The militia has never been called out to suppress labor troubles. They have been called out, in every case, to suppress lawlessness and the destruction of property. If labor organizations were wise, they would suppress lawlessness among their members, prevent the destruction of property by them, and the militia would never be called out. But so long as laboring men insist upon the right to destroy property, to prevent other men from working, and to break any law they may deem inimical to their personal interests, just so long will law-abiding citizens, who are always in the majority, demand that such acts be stopped, even if it is necessary to call out the militia for the purpose. The laws must be respected, or we would soon be in a condition of anarchy.

Gillette's Idea.

Mr. King C. Gillette has an idea. It is a tremendous one. He is going to make us all rich and happy, not to say lazy. By the improved system of finance, manufacture and commerce which he has thought out, he calculates that 10 per cent of the population, working steadily, can support all the rest in what is almost idleness. But he would not condemn 10 per cent of us to work all the time while the rest enjoyed themselves. No! We must all take our turns at labor. From 20 years old to 25 each individual must work, not so hard, however, as nearly all the rest of us work all the time now. When one detail of the population has served its time of five years, it passes off the scene to rest the remainder of its life, and the next installment comes on.

The houses of Mr. Gillette's creation will be 25 stories high. They will be built around an enormous central dome. Mr. Gillette's plans calculate for the housing of 60,000,000 people in these huge tenements. But they will not be tenements. They will be handsomer and more sanitary than the finest apartments in city flat buildings now. They will be a dream of beauty. What is more, Mr. Gillette has fixed it so that nobody can look into his neighbor's windows, which is a remarkable achievement indeed. The central dome will be so tremendous and the shape of the towers of apartments such that there will be plenty of light and air, with no airshaft lighting. The lower apartments will be just as light as the upper ones.

This stupendous plan contemplates nothing less than the abolition of underground sewers, water mains and gas pipes. They will all be put upon the surface of the ground, and the streets will be three stories high. The first story would contain the pipes in question. Overhead, 25 feet above, would be a ceiling. It and the sides of the above ground tunnel would be of snow white tiling. The second floor of the street, so to speak, would be devoted to electrical railways and the various means of transportation. If you want to go shopping, you go down to the second floor of the street and have yourself whirled to the great distributing centers of trade. There will be no horses at all in this dream city. The third floor of the street would be given over to promenaders. Perhaps bicyclers might be permitted there. In tubs as large as the underground beer tanks of this degenerate day trees would grow and shade all the promenade.

Of Indians in the United States there are altogether about 250,000. One eighth of these have taken up lands in severalty, and are endeavoring to live like white men, although it is up hill work. The main obstacles in the way are two—first, the difficulty of training the male Indian to habits of regular work; second, the knavery of the white man, who cheats him out of all the best lands. If the white man cannot get the Indian's lands any other way, he marries a squaw and spends most of his time among the tribe. Then, by hook and crook, he gets possession of the best of everything. There are still 34,000 pure blood red men in Indian Territory. They comprise what is left of the five civilized tribes, so called. But the "squaw man," as the whites married to Indian women are called, being members of the tribe by adoption, monopolize for themselves and their half breed children the fat lands and fat offices, and the red man is crowded out. The squaw men and their descendants number 20,000. While there are only 84,000 full blooded Indians among the five tribes, there are today in the territory 800,000 white people who have leased or otherwise got the lands and obtained foothold. Even the strong hand of the government cannot protect Indians' rights when they fool these away themselves.

A request that tends to foster the belief in a personal devil has been made by some floriculturists to the dealers who sell their flowers. It is that, instead of selling his surplus stock to poor peddlers, who retail it out cheaply on the streets, the florist should destroy that stock, so as to keep up the price of flowers. Rich people pay often for a single rose the price of what amounts to a whole day's work for a poor person. The rose is worth exactly as much as the seller can get for it. The surplus violets, carnations, roses and other flowers are sold to the street venders. They make these up into pretty little bouquets and sell to the humble, the working people and the poor, who thus get possession of some exquisite blossoms they would otherwise never get a sight of. It rejoices their hearts for hours. The poor peddler likewise makes an honest living for himself and his family. But the hoggish flower grower would have all this pleasure and utility destroyed solely to gratify his greed and "keep up the price of flowers." In heaven's name, what does anybody want to keep up the price of flowers for? The more of them there are, and the cheaper they are, the more of them will be bought.

The American Express company has equipped its messengers with revolvers and winchester rifles. It requests them likewise to spend a good part of their spare time in shooting at a mark and learning how to split an apple upon a gatepost. That's the right kind of talk.

Senator Sherman's idea of the duties of a president of the United States will bear quoting frequently. He thinks a president should be a man released from drudgery, "with time to study vital questions of public policy, free from worry about details."

The impression that the German emperor is approaching lunacy is strengthened by things he occasionally does. One of these was that order mentioned some time ago by a London correspondent, in which his majesty requested people not to look at him in church. He does not like to be watched while he is at divine service. But if he were rapt in his prayers, as he ought to be, his majesty would not know whether people looked at him or not. The freakish emperor, however, signifies his entire willingness to be stared at when not in church. The closing part of his order is certainly something whose like was never heard of, even in the times of the Roman emperors, "Those who desire to have a good view of me can do so every day when I take my walk in the thiergarten or drive in my carriage."

The heavy government fortifications that for some years have been in process of erection at Sandy Hook have so nearly reached completion as to entitle them to a name. In issuing the order that they should be called Fort Hancock, Secretary Lamont honors the memory of a brave and patriotic American general, who was said to be the most magnificent looking army officer of his day and generation in the world. Fort Hancock will guard lower New York bay below the Narrows so that hostile foreign cruisers cannot come up near the Battery.

OUT ON THE BORDER.

JACK LITTLEFIELD DIED WITH HIS BOOTS ON.

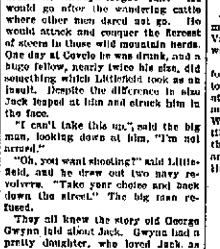

HE WAS NOT THE WORST MAN IN ROUND VALLEY.

Ran Away with His Sweetheart—Sat in the Saddle and Lighted His Pipe While Her Father Blazed Away at Him.

ROUND VALLEY is the wildest part of Mendocino county, Cal. The mountains round about it are almost inaccessible, and the ranchers and cowboys who make up its population are wild and lawless. Every man stands on his own merits, the chief merit being the quick eye and the steady hand of the dead shot. The great ranchers of this region are George White and Yes Palmer. For several years hardly a week passed without a free fight between parties of their cowboys, either in the streets of Covelo or in the mountain wilds.

The head vaquero for White was Jim Vinton; the head vaquero for Palmer was Jack Littlefield. Both were fearless men, renowned for strength, horsemanship and skill with Winchester and revolver. But Jack Littlefield was especially heroic. His friends loved him and admired him, his enemies feared him. He was not the man to shoot from ambush. Even when he was drunk he always fought fair. He would go after the wandering cattle where other men dared not go. He would attack and conquer the fiercest of steers in those wild mountain herds. One day at Covelo he was drunk, and a huge fellow, nearly twice his size, did something which Littlefield took as an insult. Despite the difference in size Jack leaped at him and struck him in the face.

"I can't take this up," said the big man, looking down at him, "I'm not armed."

"Oh, you want shooting?" said Littlefield, and he drew out two navy revolvers. "Take your choice and back down the street." The big man refused.

They all knew the story old George Gwynn told about Jack. Gwynn had a pretty daughter, who loved Jack as much as Jack loved her. The old man forbade him the house, and Jack went up there one dark night to carry the girl off. "But I was on the lookout," said the old man afterward. "It was pretty dark, but I made him out, and shot at him from the window. He stopped his horse and sat still and let me pop at him. And pretty soon he lit his pipe. The wind was blowing, and it took several matches. And every every time the match flashed I shot.—If he didn't keep on striking 'em and sitting there till I got tired of shooting. Then he rode away."

Many a fight, single-handed or at the head of a wild party of Palmer's men, did Jack have with White's vaqueros. And as he always came out ahead, a dozen of White's men hated him with a jealous, mortified fury that could only be appeased by his death. Between him and his employer, "Yes" Palmer, there was a friendship like that of David and Jonathan, a friendship based upon the things they had endured together and the memory of the tight places in which each had saved the other.

The great cause of the love and devotion of Littlefield for Palmer and the chief cause of the tragedy in this story was the fight between Jack and Joe Greggory, up in the Red mountain country. Greggory is a White vaquero. He and several of his friends met Palmer and Littlefield. A quarrel arose between Greggory and Littlefield, and, in a fair fist fight, Littlefield knocked Greggory out. As Jack turned to remount his horse, Greggory sprang upon him with a long knife and stabbed him again and again in the shoulders, arms and face. Palmer jumped at Greggory and, by the strength that fury gave him, wrenched his knife away, beat and kicked him into insensibility and then pitched his body into a deep canyon. Then he took up his bleeding friend, carried him to the nearest camp, and sent swift messengers for the doctor, several days' journey away. It was "Yes" Palmer's nursing that saved Jack Littlefield's life.

Greggory recovered, and from that time it was his chief ambition to get even with Littlefield. He and his band of friends were together in this purpose. The morning of Sept. 25 Littlefield went away to Windy Ridge to look after some cattle. From there he went on five miles to the northwest to lead out a wild steer from Red Mountain creek. Soon after he disappeared in that direction, Joe Vinton, White's head vaquero, came along Windy Ridge, riding to the southeast, exactly the opposite direction to that in which Littlefield had gone.

A mile and a half from Tom Hayden's house, some one in ambush shot Vinton in the breast. Vinton says it was Littlefield. But there are plenty of reliable witnesses to prove that Vinton either lied or was mistaken. At any rate, Vinton lay insensible for an hour and then, coming to his senses, crawled through the bushes to Hayden's cabin. Next day he sent a note into Covelo to John Rohrbaugh, White's overseer. Here is the note:

"I have been knocked over. Send men to take care of cattle. Send a doctor. Tell Lady I've been shot through and through. VINTON."

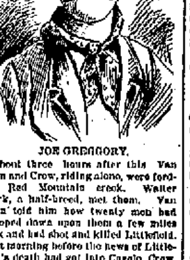

"Lady" was old man Shore's daughter, Clara, to whom Joe Vinton was engaged. With the doctor came Clara Shore, and at the last reports she was still nursing him. His wound was not fatal. The bullet went through his left breast. Upon the heels of the doctor came a posse from the sheriff's office made up of enemies of Jack Littlefield. Not a man in it that had not some grudge against him. Only one was a regular constable—Bayliss Van Horn. There were Joe Greggory, who had sworn to kill Littlefield, and Jack Crow, and Buck Lacock and Fred Radcliffe, and Gord Van Horn and Jim Simmons.

The morning of the second day after Vinton was shot this party, with the exception of Jim Simmons, rode away from Hayden's to arrest Littlefield. Simmons had disappeared in the night, and Tom Hayden himself rode with the party in his stead. About noon Littlefield and two of his assistant vaqueros—Wilburn and young Wathen—were eating down on the bank of Hull's creek. Up the trail came Constable Van Horn and Jack Crow. As soon as they reached the three men sitting in the grass Van Horn said:

"Throw up your hands, Jack!"

"I won't throw up my hands for any man on the face of the earth, Bayliss Van Horn," retorted Jack. "But if you want my gun, take it."

Van Horn took Jack's gun, told him for what he was arrested and asked him to come along. Jack Littlefield laughed at the idea that he had ambushed a man, mounted his horse and was ready. Wilburn and Wathen watched him until he disappeared from sight around the turn in the trail. He was unarmed and was riding between Van Horn and Crow.

JOE GREGGORY.

About three hours after this Van Horn and Crow, riding alone, were fording Red Mountain creek. Walter Clark, a half-breed, met them. Van Horn told him how twenty men had swooped down upon them a few miles back and had shot and killed Littlefield. Next morning before the news of Littlefield's death had got into Covelo, Crow, Simmons and Greggory rode into Covelo and Crow went to Lource's saloon. The place was full of Littlefield's friends. Crow ordered a drink and, as he drank, put his back to the bar. As he raised the glass he raised his revolver. "Excuse me," he said, as he put the empty glass down, "but I was afraid some of you fellows might think you wanted me."

Next day the coroner and a jury, composed of Littlefield's enemies, the very men of the constable's party, rode up to find Littlefield's body. It was hanging to a tree, boots and spurs on. The verdict was, "Jack Littlefield was shot and put to death on this date." One man suggested that they make a box for the burial. Greggory said: "No funeral nonsense; —— him!" Greggory pointed to several scars on the dead face and said: "Do you see those? I did that and he carried them to his grave." They dug a shallow hole two feet deep and tossed the body into it.

Littlefield's friends demanded an investigation. They rode up there and, instead of finding traces of twenty men, found where three men on horseback had stood their horses for quite a while in the cover of the bushes beside the trail. An investigation is in progress, and, although little has been done thus far, enough has come out to show that Van Horn and Crow did not tell the truth. Jack Littlefield's brother has taken his body down to Covelo for a decent burial and "Yes" Palmer has sworn not to rest until those who murdered him are dead.

Queer Suit for Damages.

Richard Tait, of Rochester, N. Y., has begun suit to recover $5,000 from Bernard Deutschler, a barber, who he alleges maliciously shaved off his luxuriant mustache. Tait says that he visited Deutschler's shop last Saturday and asked for a shave. Being tired he fell into a doze under the soft ministrations of the tonsorial artist. When he awoke he found to his dismay that he had been given a "clean shave" and no mistake. Until that time he had worn a fine mustache, long, yellow and silky. It had been the result of years of cultivation, and it will take years to grow another like it. In fact, a new growth will never be as soft as the one removed by the cruel razor. An angry altercation followed the discovery, but the barber, Tait claimed, only laughed at his sorrow. He then consulted with his friends and they advised him to sue. Tait says he can prove actual pecuniary damages. He was keeping company with a wealthy young lady, whom he intended to marry some day. His yellow mustache he was sure was a most potent factor in his suit, and now, having lost it, he feels that his chances have greatly diminished.

TIMELY ETCHINGS FOR OUR LEAN READERS.

Satyrical Points and Pithy Sayings—End of the Romance—Serious, but Not Contagious, or, Life in Styne's, Alley—Things She Didn't Know.

THE golden-rod has ceased to blow,
The shining chestnuts fall;
And through the quiet pensive air
Now flies the big football:

He waits upon the crowded street,
In silent grief, alone;
Alas, alack, alas, alack,
The breezy summer's flown!

"No more for me the big brass wheel
Will blow across the bar
And fill my white-winged sails of joy
For fairy lands afar;

"No more the garden on the roof
Will bloom to make me gay,
No more I'll roam to Coney Isle
The swift equine to play.

"The play-house curtain's been rung down—
For me the play no more;
Nor can I for the Polo Grounds
On jocund pinions soar.

"I know the airy summer's flown,
Not by the leaflets brown,
But by my spirits faded blue—
My wife is back in town!"

Things She Didn't Know.

"I am going into a stock company, Emily," Mr. Rising announced with pardonable pride.

"Will you like that, John?" Mrs. Rising's question was given with a tone of surprise.

"Well, rather," returned Mr. Rising: "I shall be an officer."

"Oh, John, that's splendid. Will you wear a uniform?" Mrs. Rising asked with interest.

"No, Emily, the officers don't wear uniforms," replied Mr. Rising.

"How did you get to be an officer, John?" Mrs. Rising asked a moment later.

"A majority of the stock elected me," Mr. Rising answered.

"Will we have to live in the country, John?"

"What put that in your head, Emily?"

"I'd like to in the summer, and thought it would be better on account of the stock."

"That's a curious notion, Emily. The stocks are all right, A No. 1. No water in the concern. They want me here at headquarters."

"Why, John, I didn't suppose there was any stock without water."

"Precious little in these days, but this ranks first-class on the market, and they let me in on the ground floor. Hello! there's the president now. I'm off," and Mr. Rising joined his business associate on the street.

"It beats me," said Mrs. Rising, as she went about her household duties. "I don't think John's mind is affected, but if stock can vote, and the officers not wear uniforms, I'd like to know what the world is coming to. I suppose he meant city water would do as well as the country, but men are crack-brained on some things. I'm thankful I don't have to worry about business. It's all I can do to look after three meals a day."—Chicago Times-Herald.

She seated herself in the rear end of the car, among the tobacco consumers, although there was plenty of room forward.

Every time the man next to her puffed his cigar she looked unhappy.

At last she turned sharply to the conductor and said:

"Smoking is very disagreeable to me."

"Is it?" he rejoined, sympathetically.

"It certainly is."

After a profound silence she resumed.

"Well, aren't you going to do something or say something about it?"

"Why—er—certainly."

"I wish you wouldn't lose any time."

"If I were in your place, and smoking was disagreeable to me, why—er"—

"Well, sir."

"Why, I wouldn't smoke."

He meant it kindly, but she got off the car and reported him to the company just the same.—Washington Star.

Just Like a Man.

Mrs. Somebody, who lives on Thirteenth street, has an infant son who is just beginning to walk. Last week he fell down stairs, so his mother bought a gate to put at the top of the stairs. There is a little metal socket screwed to each side of the stairs and the gate fits into these. It was put up one day, Wednesday, I think. It was Mr. Somebody's night at the lodge and Mrs. Somebody remembered after he had left the house that he had not been told of the gate. She was so exercised for fear he would fall over it when he came in that she sat up for him. He was late, very late, and she was very tired. And yet when he did come and realized how devotedly she had waited up in order to save him a tumble what do you think the heartless man said?

"Why, my dear," said he, "why didn't you just lift the gate out?"

"Wasn't that just like a man?"—Washington Post.

Only Another Malapropism.

She was a very stout woman—stouter than stout women usually are. Ballasted with a basket, two parcels and a baby, she bucked her way to the only seat in the car. Already in half the seat was a slip of a girl, fresh and Maylike, as girls are apt to be nowadays.

The young girl had a big bunch of lilacs in her lap. The stout woman, with the eight-o'clock-in-the-morning perspiration, mopped some of it from her head and face. Then the lilacs caught her eye.

These lilacs looked deliciously cool and fresh, and the stout woman felt uncommonly warm. The situation was a fatal one and imperative. The stout woman felt impelled to do justice to it. She did. She looked at the flowers again, then at the young girl, then straight up into space and came out with, "My, ain't them lilacs fagrant!"—Philadelphia Call.

Not for many years have the Pittsburg trainmen been so busy as they are at present. In fact there is such a demand for their service that they have no time for anything but work and sleep, and sometimes they have to cut the latter short. Yesterday was the banner day of the season, so far as the movement of freight is concerned, there being at one time sixty-one freight trains in transit between Crestline and Chicago, thirty-six of them westbound and twenty-five eastbound. Included in the number was a solid stock train of thirty seven cars and a solid cotton train of thirty-six cars, which were turned over to the road by one of its Chicago connections. All local trains were annulled and the locomotives and crews were put into the through freight service. The train sheets show that between 6 a. m. and 6 p. m. yesterday there were sent out of Crestline 647 cars and out of Chicago 206 cars, making 947 cars, which, added to the number sent out previous to that hour and then in transit would swell the total number of cars moving east or west to something like 1,700. And there is no diminution of the traffic or indications that it will diminish any for some time.

WILL TEST COAL.

The coal used on the western divisions of the Pittsburg, Fort Wayne and Chicago road is drawn from sixteen distinct sources, each differing in some manner from the other. This difference, chiefly in the heating and lasting qualities of the fuel, is the source of much annoyance and expense to the company sometimes and it has been decided to investigate the matter thoroughly and discard that, which is inferior and in the future use only the good. With this end in view D. F. Crawford, assistant master mechanic, is preparing to test the coal, each variety to be treated separately and put through three tests. For this purpose apparatus will be put up in the electric light engine room and the tests made at night, when that engine is in motion. Mr. Crawford will be assisted in the work by L. G. Dailey, of Master Car Builder James A. Graham's office.

A PLEASANT EVENT.

There was a Thanksgiving entertainment at 106 Calhoun street last evening, which was undoubtedly one of the most enjoyable of the several similar events in the city. It was given by the ladies' auxiliary of the Order of Railway Conductors and consisted of musical and literary exercises, followed by an oyster supper. The Standard Mandolin club was present and after supper the floor was cleared of chairs and the conductors and their wives and friends enjoyed a dance program of six or eight numbers. The festivities were prolonged into the "wee sma'" hours and those who participated declared they never had a better time.

BRIEF MENTION.

Supt. P. S. O'Rourke went to Grand Rapids this morning.

Blacksmith Henry Dreyer resumed work in the Pittsburg shops this morning. He was sick nearly one month.

After an illness of ten days Brakeman Deatrick was able to resume his duties on the Nickel Plate yesterday.

M. Feuchter, the Pittsburg blacksmith, who had a hand burned a few days ago, reported for duty this morning.

H. Trosin, a car inspector, was sent to Valparaiso this morning to relieve an employe of the Pittsburg who is sick.

George C. Scott, of Shop Clerk Meegan's office, has resumed his duties after a pleasant visit with friends in Peru.

George Wirth, Pittsburg telegraph operator, has so far recovered from typhoid fever as to be able to walk about his room.

The Wabash lines earned in the third week of November $250,624 66, an increase over the corresponding week of 1894 of $2,635,75.

The passenger earnings of the Wabash lines since July 1st show an increase over the corresponding period of 1894 of over $200,000.

The Pennsylvania lines have handled thus far this year 5,336,605 tons more of coal and coak than in the corresponding period of 1894.

The Big Four employes have decided to open the new shops at Wabash with a grand dedication ball, the event to take place early in January.

The Wagner Palace Car company has given orders to its works to build fifteen new sleeping cars, to be up to the highest standard in every respect.

Nickel Plate engine 10 is out of the shops, looking as good as new. She will go into the freight service on the third district, in charge of Engineer Van Tilburg.

George White will be acting timekeeper in the down town Pittsburg car shops for several weeks, L. G. Dailey, the regular time clerk, having been called to another department.

Joseph Smith, of the Bass boiler shop, was struck in the face yesterday by a heavy piece of line shafting, which fell from the ceiling. The iron struck him on the nose, inflicting a painful injury.

George Sweringen, of the Pennsylvania offices, has taken a few days' vacation. Today he attended the Sweringen-Meisse wedding at Decatur, the particulars of which appear elsewhere in THE SENTINEL.

Henry Geerkens, boilermaker in the Pittsburg shops, is rejoicing over the favorable turn the disease which has prostrated his daughter so long has taken. The young lady will probably be able to sit up in a few days.

Hayden Cherry, a stenographer in the Pittsburg car office, returned from a hunting expedition in Ohio at 5 o'clock last evening, footsore and weary. He carried one lone rabbit which he says he shot, though there were no marks of violence on bunnie's body.

Boilermaker E. L. Little, of the Pittsburg, is sick and off duty.

G. F. Miller, a flue welder at the Pittsburg shops, is off duty on account of sickness.

J. Morisey and Thomas Lynch, boilermakers, have taken positions in the Pittsburg shops.

M. S. Wilson, foreman of the testing department of the electric works, is off duty today, to attend a funeral.

Mrs. Petzinger, the aged mother of Boilermaker Charles F. Petzinger, of the Pittsburg shops, is lying very ill.

Engines 201 and 122 were turned out of the Pittsburg shops this morning, and 245 and 267 were taken in for repairs.

The electric works shipped an 60 light Wood arc dynamo to New York this morning. Thence it will go to Mexico.

The Bass blacksmiths were compelled to work yesterday, the company having some work on hand that could not be delayed.

L. H. Loos, J. V. Palmer and John Kaiser failed to report for duty at the Pittsburg shops this morning and it is feared they are sick.

The Grand Rapids and Indiana company will build a new depot at Decatur, after the improved style of architecture for such structures.

Engineer Harry Dart, formerly of the Grand Rapids and Indiana road, is now running a Wabash engine between Andrews and Tilton, and has moved to the latter place.

Conductor McCormack resumed charge of his train on the Nickel Plate yesterday, after a ten days absence, which he spent in singing lullabies to his new daughter.

At the shops of the Grand Trunk an elegant private car is being built, to be used by Sir Charles Rivers Wilson, president of the company, on his trip when in this country.

John Lyons has resigned as manager of the Nickel Plate restaurant and Wilmer Wilkinson has taken charge of affairs. Mr. Wilkinson is the son of Detective Thomas Wilkinson.

Freight officials look for a heavy live stock traffic for some months to come, and are getting stock cars in shape to handle it. This line of cars has been neglected, so much more were box cars needed.

Some weeks ago a report was sent out from Pittsburg that the operating departments of the Fort Wayne and the Panhandle lines would be consolidated, to save expenses. The officials deny the story.

Owing to the low stage of the rivers hundreds of thousands of cross ties sold to railways are piled on river banks awaiting a rise in the streams to ship them. Between New Albany and Leavenworth, on the Ohio, one contractor has 160,000 ties piled up for Indiana roads.

West of Pittsburg and Erie for the month of October, 1895, as compared with the same month in 1894, the statement of the business of the Pennsylvania lines shows an increase in gross earnings of $417,064 37, an increase in expenses of $101,052 86, and an increase in net earnings of $315,-093 51.

Orders have been issued to the Pennsylvania car inspector at this point to hold all freight cars, whether they belong to the company or some other company, that are not equipped with grab irons. The Pennsylvania company proposes to obey the law in the equipment of cars, as well as in all things else.

Indianapolis Journal: "With some railway attorneys and railway officials a belief prevails that before twelve months the Brice syndicate will control the Indiana, Decatur and Western and the Toledo, St. Louis and Kansas City, which would give the Lake Erie and Western great prestige. The idea is, however, one of speculation on the part of these gentlemen."

Alex. Henderson, stationary engineer at the Wabash shops, is wrestling with typhoid symptoms. He resides at No 5 Brandriff street.

The Nickel Plate was compelled to borrow a line from the Pittsburg yesterday, while the linemen were engaged in putting up some poles and connecting wires at Knox and thereabouts.

Supt. J. B. Barnes, Supt. E. A Gould, Road Master A. B. Adams, Attorney Stuart, Trainmaster J. J. Sims and Claim Agent J. L. Head are in the city on business connected with the Wabash road.

Joseph Darber, of No. 2 Center street, the well known Nickel Plate fireman, who has been very dangerously ill for some weeks, is slowly improving, being able to be out yesterday for the first time.

The foot ball game at Lakeside park yesterday morning, between the Keystones, of the Pittsburg shops, and a team composed of employes of Rhinesmith & Simonson, resulted in victory for the Keystones, by a score of 14 to 0.

Paul Roebke, of the Fort Wayne Iron works, who was injured severely at the sham battle during the centennial, will be given a benefit by the Empire theatrical people on the evening of December 3. The affair will be in the hands of the Fort Wayne Rifles, which assures its success.

The engine hauling the fourth section of Pittsburg train 72, got off the rails at Etna Green at 6:10 o'clock this morning, as it was pulling its train in on the siding. The Warsaw work train crew went out and put the engine on the rails. The west-bound limited was delayed one hour by the accident.

Local Wabash officials were officially notified this morning of the appointment of Joseph Ramsey, jr., to the general management of the system, the same to become effective December 1. Mr. Hays will not assume his office on the Grand Trunk until the new year, but he desired to be released from the Wabash Sunday next, so he could have a month for recreation.

The Pennsylvania company will dispose of all its old style passenger equipment and in its place put the most modern equipment, even to the express and baggage cars. The passenger coaches are to be similar to those exhibited at the world's fair. It is proposed to have the western Pennsylvania lines as well equipped as are the Pennsylvania lines east of Pittsburg.

Last evening, at 7 o'clock, at 29 Grand street, Rev. Brown united Charles Dean and Miss Gracie De-French in marriage, a few friends of the bride and groom being present. Mr. Dean is employed in the Pittsburg blacksmith shop and quietly showed up for work this morning. It is the custom of the men in that establishment to treat the groom with an anvil serenade, but none knew of Charles' marriage until about 9 o'clock, when one of the boys came around and told them.

To Prevent Consolidation.

NEW YORK, Nov. 29—Notice has been served upon the Central Trust company, of this city, by counsel of a Connecticut bondholder of the Chicago gas companies, to show cause, on December 11, before the attorney general of New York, why suit should not be brought against that institution to prevent the attempted consolidation of the Chicago gas properties.

Married Again.

SANTA BARBARA, Cal., Nov. 29.—Mrs. Eliza Sulveley, who was divorced from the Rev. Sulveley, of Chicago, a short time ago, was married last night to Wm. Alexander, a real estate dealer of this city.

Count Dead.

ELLISCHAU, Bohemia, Nov. 29.—Count Von Taaffe, the Austrian statesman, died here at 10:30 this morning.

For Men of Society.

What is the use of dressing up to pay a call when that cough makes you a burden to yourself and a nuisance to your friends? Take something for it. There is nothing so good as a twenty-five cent bottle of Ely's Pineola Balsam, which is soothing to the throat and beneficial in all diseases of the throat and lungs. It will relieve the cough at once and in a few days you will almost forget that you have had a cough.

ABSOLUTELY PURE

The Most Unkindest Cut of All.

Passing before the editor's desk, Mr. Hayro Tuboane laid a bulky manuscript thereon and smiled indulgently upon the universe at large.

Hastily tapping a bell the editor proceeded with his treatise on strategical warfare in the orient.

A half hour later, when the bell was answered, the editor bade the office boy get his rubber boots.

"Hurry up," he added impatiently. "I've got some slush here to wade through."

With sad misgivings eating into his very vitals, Mr. Hayro Tuboane picked up his manuscript and without a word faded away into the darkness and the night.

It was plain to be seen that his sensitive nature had been hurt.—New York World.

A Prediction.

Middle Aged Novice—I'm just off for a tour in the country—"biking" all the way. It'll be four weeks before I'm back in my flat again.

Candid Friend—Ah! But it won't be four hours before you're flat on your back again.—Punch.

Bridget's Appreciation.

A lady employed a very ignorant Irish servant, who would not rise in the morning at a sufficiently early hour. An alarm was therefore bought and presented to the servant with the words, "You know, Bridget, that I require the fire alight every morning by 7 o'clock; but I cannot get you to do it; so I have bought you this alarm." Bridget examined it and said: "Thank you, mum; it's very pretty. But fancy a thing like this bein able to light a fire. Sure it's a wonderful invention, mum."—London Household Words.

One Reason.

"Why," shouted the impassioned British orator, "why is it that the wife of the farmer lacks the happy, contented look to be found upon the faces of the bareheaded peasant women of the continent?"

"Because," said the man near the door, "because the bareheaded peasant woman does not have to worry all the time about her hat being on straight."—Exchange.

Confident of It.

Lady of the House—I should think you would be afraid to come around in the back yard. I rather you didn't do it last week on account of our big dog.

Tramp—No'm. But I knew that dog wasn't here no more.

Lady of the House—How did you know it?

Tramp—I let him have that piece of pie you gave me.—Detroit Free Press.

Long Names.

Welsh names continue to puzzle hearers and amuse readers.

"Is your father at home?" asked an Englishman of a Welsh boy, whom he met on the banks of the Menai straits, North Wales.

"No, sir; he's gone to work at the Rhosllanerchrugog."

"Is your mother in, then?"

"She gone to the fair at Llanfairmathafarneithaf."

"Dear me! But where is your sister?"

"My sister has gone to school at Llanfairpwllgwyngyllgogerychwyrndrobwllllantysiliogogogoch."

"My gracious!" exclaimed the Englishman. "I'm afraid I shall have to go to school again myself."—Pittsburg Dispatch.

Naturally.

"Mamma," said the little girl at the flower show, who had absorbed during the evening a glass of lemonade, a quantity of cider and some grape juice, "I wish you would buy me a drink of water. I want something to anthirst me."—Chicago Tribune.

People go Where They Are Sure of the Best.

Harper's Bazaar, that good paper, has a short story in the issue of 19ult, worth reading. It's about a popular fabric—fibre Chamois—interesting, cleverly put and many good points in it. We don't endorse all of them, but we do fibre Chamois, the genuine, and that's the kind we sell. Astonishing the demand for it—we have interlinings, that look like fibre Chamois—quite good, too—and sell them at about half the price—but the people generally want the genuine—good linings at right prices is what has built up this great and growing lining department. It's a store by itself—more salespeople in this one department for linings and dress findings than we used to have in our whole store.

Ladies' Hand Bags.

REAL CHARITY.

A Great Supply of Food and Clothing Donated.

List of the Articles Received at the Rink—Liberal Receipts at the English Lutheran Church.

The people of Fort Wayne yesterday showed their charitable nature. They responded to the call for donations for the poor in a way that was extremely gratifying.

At the Princess Rink the articles received were the following: $128.03 in money; 85 sacks flour, 12 sacks buckwheat flour, 50 sacks corn meal, 2 bushels apples, 2½ bushels beans, 75 pounds sugar, 50 cans fruit, 30 cans vegetables, 40 bushels potatoes, 2 barrel hominy, 1 barrel cream meal, 10 pounds tea, 40 pounds coffee, 25 loaves bread, 3 quarters mutton, 12 chickens, 3 turkeys, 160 bundles clothing.

About twenty-five families who were in immediate need were given relief at once, and the rest of the great supply was turned over to the Associated Charities, by whom it will be placed when it is needed.

At the English Lutheran church the donations also reached a very large amount. Two or three big wagon loads of necessities were received at the church and turned over to the Relief Union of the city.

These munificent offerings by the people of the city who are more fortunate than their poor brothers, were in keeping with the spirit of Thanksgiving day, and the generous givers will receive the prayers of those whose wants are relieved through their kindness.

Silver Wedding Anniversary.
